Section 1: Overview of Comprehensive Education Planning

Overview of Comprehensive Education Planning

Comprehensive Education Planning (CEP) is a structured, data-driven process that guides schools in assessing their needs, identifying areas for growth, setting strategic goals and implementing targeted actions to improve student outcomes. Collaboratively developed by the School Leadership Team (SLT) in accordance with the requirements of Chancellor's Regulation A-655, the CEP meets New York State Education Department (NYSED) requirements under the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and aligns with NYC Public Schools' (NYCPS) system-wide priorities. By engaging all stakeholders—school leaders, teachers, families, students and community members—schools can create a data-informed, equity-focused roadmap for student success and continuous improvement.

Schools should focus their CEP on the five system-wide priorities below, connecting their planning to the data discussions and conversations with stakeholders held as part of the school's needs assessment:

- Priority 1: All students learn to read well
- Priority 2: All students are physically and emotionally safe
- Priority 3: All students have a high-quality academic experience
- Priority 4: All students graduate college and career ready and have a strong plan and pathway to economic security
- Priority 5: All districts and schools are more inclusive and responsive for parents and families, including having more families choose NYC Public Schools

The Education Planning Process

The CEP follows an equity-driven, continuous improvement cycle, rooted in the system-wide priorities. This begins with a comprehensive needs assessment of the school's most current data to identify priority needs and root causes. Next, the SLT establishes specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and timely—SMART goal(s) aligned to each priority and determines targets to measure progress toward meeting the annual goals.

The SLT and instructional leaders define key evidence-based key strategies, professional learning activities and parent, family and community empowerment efforts. They monitor the implementation of those strategies and activities and track progress through measurable targets. Then, the SLT aligns the school-based budget with human and instructional resources to support action plans.

As schools set goals, develop key strategies, and plan action steps, they provide opportunities for all children to meet NYSED's proficient and advanced levels of student academic achievement. These include evidence based instructional strategies that address the educational needs of historically underserved populations and tackle structural inequities. Schools indicate how the plan addresses the needs of Multilingual/English Language Learners (ML/ELL) through development of the school's Language Allocation Policy (LAP) & Title III Application (if applicable) and the Language Translation and Interpretation (LTI) Plan, that are required as part of the CEP. Schools also address the needs of Students with Disabilities (SWD) through the High Quality Inclusive & Accessible Learning for Students with Disabilities section of the plan. SLTs also develop a plan to improve attendance and reduce chronic absenteeism.

Guidance on Conducting a Comprehensive Needs Assessment

Directions: Conduct a comprehensive needs assessment for each Priority. The information below provides guidance for reviewing and analyzing student and school performance trends to uncover root causes for low student achievement.

1. Review Multiple Data Sources: Use the most current and available information including, but not limited to, the following sources of formative and summative data, as applicable:

- Qualitative and quantitative data, including enrollment and class size trends
- 2024-25 ESSA Accountability Data
- Instructional Leadership Framework (ILF), Supportive Environment Framework (SEF) Inventories, and NYC School Survey results
- Quality Review Reports, NYSED and NYCPS CSI or A/TSI Support Visits, Receivership Quarterly Reports, and Diagnostic Tool for School and District Effectiveness Framework (DTSDE)
- NYC School Quality Guide, Insight, New Visions, NWEA MAP and/or other formative assessment data, IEP Review Survey Data, Progress on IEP Goals Data, Program (SESIS-STARS Linkage) Reports, Mandated (Related) Services Reports, and NYCPS Tools for Understanding Your Data for student subgroup information

2. Analyze Data Trend(s) to Identify Areas of Strength and Need: Identify data trends by grade, cohort, and content area(s) to surface gaps and inequities. Compare data sets to identify instructional and school practices that are impacting student performance. Guiding questions to consider:

- What does the data reveal about improving and declining student performance trends within grades, cohorts, and student subgroups?
- What inequities are evident between highest and lowest performing student subgroups? Which subgroup(s) scored at Level 1 based on NYSED ESSA accountability indicators?
- What does the data suggest regarding the effectiveness (or ineffectiveness) of current school programs, practices, and/or strategies/initiatives? What areas may need to be strengthened?
- Are there any differences in student performance between program delivery models for ML/ELL and SWD? (e.g., for special education: special class, ICT, SETSS, related services only; for ML/ELL: Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) vs. Dual Language, etc.)
- How does delivery of instruction factor into data trends? What are the implications for teacher quality and professional learning?
- What inequities in special education referral and school disciplinary practices (e.g. suspensions, removals) are evident between student subgroups with IEPs?

3. Identify Root Cause(s): After analyzing the data, engage in a process for uncovering root causes or contributing factors for low student and school performance. Develop theories or hypotheses to explain why these needs exist and why your school is getting its current outcomes. Root causes could be related to gaps and inequities in areas such as curriculum & instruction, school systems & structures, student support services, school climate & safety, and family & community engagement. Focus on the causes, rather than the symptoms. Use the 5 Whys Method or other methods for identifying root causes. Consider the questions below:

- What theories or hypotheses explain the current student and school outcomes?
- Are there root causes specific to certain subgroups, grades, cohorts, or content area(s)?

Additional resources and supports are available below.

- Use this CEP Needs Assessment Worksheet to help your SLT and stakeholders identify appropriate data sources, data trends, root causes and priority needs.
- For guidance and best practices on engaging stakeholders in a comprehensive needs assessment and root cause analysis, see this deck.
- A current list of all CEP/Title I resources can be found on the iPlan Portal Public Resources Page.

Priority 1 Action Plan

Directions: Identify the key strategy and progressive action steps your school will take to address the specific priority needs and root causes identified for this goal(s). More than one strategy can be indicated if multiple and/or differentiated needs for this priority have been identified.

- Key strategies should be key levers for success and may represent something that is new to the school.
- Action steps to operationalize key strategies should focus on new activities or initiatives and/or modifications to current initiatives (e.g., expanded to reach a wider audience or refined for greater impact on students).

Note: Routine activities your school does every year should not be included.

Key Strategy 1 (Required):

Ensure alignment across grades and classrooms with clear expectations for instruction, materials, and assessments.
Build master schedule to include weekly common planning time for data analysis and collaborative lesson planning.
Provide teachers with individual and small group coaching support including modeling, co-teaching, and feedback.

Root Cause Addressed:

Inconsistencies in the implementation of evidence-based literacy instruction across classrooms, affecting student outcomes
Lack foundational literacy skills and gaps in teacher content knowledge.

Action Steps:

Indicate what your school will do specifically to implement each strategy to achieve this annual goal. Include both student-facing activities and professional learning for staff. Be sure to indicate how action steps will be introduced and rolled out.

Priority Needs and Root Causes

Directions: After conducting your comprehensive needs assessment for this Priority use the chart below to:

- Summarize the data trends (gaps in student and school performance) for each priority. Use the most current data available and cite the data sources and years.
- Identify the root causes (and/or contributing factors, theories, hypotheses) that explain the current student and school outcomes.
- Indicate the high leverage priority needs determined by your school that, if resolved, will advance equity and result in measurable, positive impact on student outcomes.

Guiding Questions:
1. Data Trends: What did you see as you analyzed data trends? Cite data sources and years, including those available from NYCPS and NYSED.
2. Root Causes: What do you believe are the reasons within the school's control that are leading to these outcomes?
3. Priority Needs: What are the most important needs identified after completing your needs assessment?

Section 6: Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS)

Academic Support

NYCPS Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) align with NYSED guidelines for providing Academic Intervention Services (AIS) to students who have not yet met state standards or are considered to be at-risk of not meeting state standards. The Multi-tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) framework, organizes supports into three tiers:

Tier 1 provides schoolwide, high-quality programming for all students, including SWDs;

Tier 2 offers data informed small-group interventions for at-promise students; and Tier 3 delivers intensive, individualized support for students with persistent needs.

This facilitates the strategic planning and necessary resource alignment to ensure their school community appropriately and adequately serves all students well, in partnership with students and families.

MTSS identifies the academic support services to be provided and ensures that students receive Response to Intervention (RtI) and Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support (PBIS) strategies as needed. See NYSED's memo to view the criteria for determining AIS services. The Supportive Environment Framework (SEF) offers a wide range of evidence-based Tier 2 and Tier 3 interventions and supports for student social-emotional, behavioral, physical and mental wellness, with particular attention to the unique needs of students in Temporary Housing and/or Foster Care, who may face additional challenges related to school stability, trauma and access to educational resources. A culturally responsive-sustaining approach to intervention embeds culturally relevant texts and historical narratives into literacy and social studies interventions, ensuring students receive the support that reflects their identities and lived experiences, increasing engagement and achievement.

Use the charts below and a Multi-Tiered System of Support (MTSS) to match academic, social/emotional, behavioral and instructional resources with student needs to provide targeted support for all learners, especially at-risk students who experience difficulty meeting state standards, including those living in Temporary Housing and/or residing in Foster Care placements. Indicate specialized materials, technology-based tools and/or extra instruction, including Expanded Learning Time that supplement school-wide systems & supports and/or classroom level supports. Ensure that interventions address the unique social-emotional, behavioral and academic challenges faced by culturally and linguistically diverse students, as well as those impacted by housing instability and child welfare system involvement.

Directions: Complete the chart and identify Tier 2 or 3 MTSS Academic supports. Any Tier 2/3 interventions should be in addition to the foundational work being done at Tier 1.

Any Tier 2/3 interventions should be in addition to the foundational work being done at Tier 1.

Family and Community Engagement Around MTSS

Describe how the school's essential components of MTSS are shared with families.

Family-Friendly Overviews and Presentations
At Curriculum Night and Family Workshops, the school presents MTSS in accessible language, explaining how it supports academic, social-emotional, and behavioral success.

Families learn that MTSS is a three-tiered system:

Tier 1: High-quality, universal instruction and support for all students.

Tier 2: Targeted small group interventions.

Tier 3: Intensive, individualized support.

Tools Used: Visual handouts, charts, and translated presentations to ensure clarity for multilingual families.

Ongoing Family Engagement in Intervention Planning
Parent-Teacher Conferences include updates on Tiered supports and data.

Student Support Teams (SST) invite families to participate in planning and monitoring intervention strategies.

Families are encouraged to share insights about their child's needs, strengths, and out-of-school factors that may affect performance.

Accessible Resources on MTSS
The school's website or newsletter includes a "Parent Corner" with:

Explanations of MTSS and how it benefits students.

Guides to academic and SEL supports available at school.

Resources to support learning at home.

Translated resources are made available to reflect the home languages of the school community.

Family Workshops on Core Components of MTSS
Workshops are offered on topics like:

Understanding student progress monitoring.

Social-emotional learning (SEL) and behavior supports.

Literacy/math strategies at home.

These workshops help families become partners in supporting Tier 1 and Tier 2 interventions.

Students in Temporary Housing (STH) Support

As included in your school's Office of School and Youth Development Consolidated Plan-STH Section and in accordance with the federal McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act and Chancellor's Regulation A-780, schools must identify, serve, and report on students living in temporary housing (STH). All Title I and non-Title I schools receive a Title I allocation for STH students. The Students in Temporary Housing (STH) website provides guidance on STH pupils and how these funds can be used to meet their needs, as well as restrictions. For more information on acceptable uses of the mandated Title I, Part A set-aside to support your STH population, please refer to the Title I STH Funds Toolkit.

Identify the number of Students in Temporary Housing who are currently attending your school and provide a breakdown of their temporary housing status. Since the number of STH children can change regularly, schools must carefully track this number to determine whether there has been an increase in need.

After a careful analysis of historical demographic, attendance and achievement data for your STH population, what trends do you notice, and how can these trends inform the services and support provided for this population?

Majority of our STH are asylum seekers and are working towards permanent housing. We provide basic supplies and are also working with our CBO to acquire free scholarships for an after-school program so that the p[parents can obtain employment.

Describe the services you are planning to provide to the STH population. How were those services selected to best meet students' needs? How will you (or did you) utilize the STH Title I Survey to select services aligned to need?

Purchased school supplies and school clothing.
Developed an individual action plan to assess needs and address possible barriers to coming to school..
Connect students and families as needed to pupil personnel secretary, guidance counselor and family worker.

Prioritizing Students in Foster Care

As included in your school's Office of School and Youth Development Consolidated Plan-Child Child Abuse and Neglect Intervention and Prevention School Plan and in accordance with the federal Education Law 3244 – Education of Children in Foster Care (Effective 2018) establishes the rights of students placed, or moved, in foster care to:

- Continue attending school of origin if determined to be in their best interest, or, if not, attend school near foster care placement,
- Immediate enrollment, and
- Transportation, if necessary to attend school of origin

Please respond to the questions below.

How many students in foster care are currently enrolled at your school? Provide a detailed breakdown of the social-emotional and academic supports available to them.

1 student

Individual Counseling: Weekly or bi-weekly sessions with a licensed guidance counselor or social worker.
Designated Support Person
Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) Programming
Flexibility in scheduling and translation services are provided to ensure inclusion.
Student receive small-group instruction in reading or math during the school day.
Progress is tracked and reviewed every 6–8 weeks.
Laptop/I-Pad provided if needed.

What targeted supports are in place for students in foster care, including those newly transitioning into the foster care system? How does your school ensure these students receive the necessary interventions to promote stability and success?

At PS 163Q, targeted supports for students in foster care—especially those newly transitioning into the system—begin with immediate enrollment, assignment of a Foster Care Point Person, and individualized check-ins to assess both academic and emotional needs. These students are prioritized for school-based counseling services and small-group social-emotional learning (SEL) supports to address trauma, anxiety, or behavioral shifts tied to instability. Academically, students are assessed upon entry and provided with appropriate interventions, such as Academic Intervention Services (AIS), tutoring, or IEP-related supports if applicable. Staff are trained in trauma-informed practices to ensure classrooms remain safe, predictable, and responsive. Communication with foster families and agencies is frequent and flexible, ensuring consistency in supports and shared decision-making. Through this coordinated approach—rooted in the MTSS framework—PS 163Q promotes both short-term stability and long-term academic and emotional success for students in foster care.

After analyzing historical demographic, attendance, and achievement data for students in foster care, what trends have emerged? How can these insights be used to improve the services and support provided to this population?

After analyzing historical demographic, attendance, and achievement data for students in foster care at PS 163Q, several key trends have emerged. These students often experience higher rates of chronic absenteeism, increased school mobility, and lower academic performance compared to their peers. Patterns also show that emotional and behavioral challenges tend to rise following a placement change or significant life event. These insights highlight the need for early identification, consistent monitoring, and immediate wraparound supports upon entry or transition into care. To improve services, the school is enhancing coordination between educators, social workers, and foster care agencies, while also expanding trauma-informed training for staff. Additionally, building stronger family and caregiver partnerships and ensuring foster students are prioritized for academic interventions and counseling can help mitigate disruptions and promote greater stability and achievement. These data-driven adjustments allow the school to create a more responsive and equitable support system tailored to the unique challenges foster care students face

What specific strategies does your school implement to ensure students in foster care, particularly those in transitional grades, receive targeted Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) support? How do these strategies help address academic and behavioral challenges?

At PS 163Q, students in foster care—especially those in transitional grades such as Pre-K to Kindergarten, Grade 2 to 3, and Grade 5 to 6—receive targeted Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) support through structured, trauma-informed strategies. These include small-group SEL sessions focused on building resilience, managing emotions, and fostering healthy relationships, as well as one-on-one counseling for students with identified needs. Teachers and support staff are trained in recognizing trauma responses and implementing classroom-based SEL practices to create consistent, emotionally safe environments. Transitional students are paired with peer buddies or mentors to ease anxiety and build a sense of belonging. Additionally, daily check-ins and restorative circles provide space for reflection and emotional regulation. These strategies not only help students manage the emotional and behavioral challenges associated with transitions and instability but also improve their ability to focus, participate, and succeed academically by addressing the root causes of disengagement and behavioral disruptions.

Section 7: Parent and Family Engagement Policy and School-Parent Compact

Parent and Family Engagement Policy

Directions: The Parent and Family Engagement Policy should describe how your school will plan and implement effective parent and family engagement activities and/or strategies to improve student academic achievement and school performance. The School-Parent Compact (SPC) is a component of the Parent and Family Engagement Policy (PFEP) that outlines how parents, the entire school staff, and students will share this responsibility.

The activities and/or strategies included in your school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy should align with current Comprehensive Education Plan (CEP) goals for improving student achievement and should be developed or updated with input and feedback from parent leaders and the Parent Coordinator. In addition, if the school community will be engaged in central parent engagement initiatives, such as Parent Academy, which will provide training for school communities to help strengthen family-school partnerships, please be sure to include these activities in the school's policy.

In Title I schools, the Title I Parent Advisory Council (PAC) represents the Title I parent community in supporting parent and family engagement. The Title I PAC Chairperson will serve in a consultative role with the SLT representing the school's Title I parents. Schools are encouraged to use the sample Parent and Family Engagement and SPC templates below (which meet federal Title I parent and family engagement requirements) as guidance for updating the school's current policy.

Parent and Family Engagement Policy

Educational research shows a positive correlation between effective parental engagement and student achievement. The overall aim of this policy is to develop a parent and family engagement policy that will establish expectations and objectives for meaningful parent and family engagement in the school community. 25Q163, in compliance with Section 1116 of Title I, Part A of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), is responsible for creating and implementing a parent and family engagement policy to strengthen the connection and support of student achievement between the school and the families. The school's policy is designed to keep parents informed by actively involving them in planning and decision-making in support of the education of their children. Parents are encouraged to actively participate on the School Leadership Team, Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association), and Title I Parent Advisory Council as trained volunteers and welcomed members of the school community.

Support for Parents and Family Members of Title I Students

PS 163Q will support parents and family members of Title I students by:
- providing materials and training to help parents work with their children to improve their achievement level, e.g., literacy, math and use of technology;
- providing parents with the information and training needed to effectively become involved in planning and decision making in support of the education of their children;
- fostering a caring and effective home-school partnership to ensure that parents can effectively support and monitor their child's progress;
- providing assistance to parents in understanding City, State and Federal standards and assessments;
- sharing information about school and parent related programs, meetings and other activities in a format, and in languages that parents can understand;
- providing professional learning opportunities for school staff with the assistance of parents to improve outreach, communication skills and cultural competency in order to build stronger ties between parents and other members of the school community;

Parental Involvement and School Quality

The school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy was designed based upon a careful assessment of the needs of all parents/guardians, including parents/guardians of Multilingual Learners/English Language Learners (ML/ELL), and students with disabilities. The school community, with the meaningful involvement of parents and family members, will conduct an annual evaluation of the content and effectiveness of this parent and family engagement policy with Title I parents to improve the academic quality of the school. The findings of the evaluation through school surveys and feedback forms will be used to design strategies to more effectively meet the needs of parents and family members and enhance the school's Title I program. This information will be maintained by the school.

In developing the Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy, parents of Title I participating students, parent members of the school's Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association), as well as parent members of the School Leadership Team, were consulted on the proposed Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy and asked to survey their members for additional input. To increase and improve parent involvement and school quality, the school will:
- actively involve and engage parents and family members in the planning, review and evaluation of the effectiveness of the school's Title I program as outlined in the School Comprehensive Education Plan, including the implementation of the school's Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy and School-Parent Compact;
- engage all parents in discussion and decisions regarding the required Title I, 1% set-aside funds, which are allocated directly to the school to supplement parent and family engagement activities, including family literacy and parenting skills;
- ensure that the Title I funds allocated for parent and family engagement are utilized to implement activities and strategies as described in the school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy and the School-Parent Compact;
- support school-level committees that include parents who are members of the School Leadership Team, the Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association) and Title I Parent Advisory Council. This includes providing technical support and ongoing professional learning, especially in developing leadership skills;
- maintain a Parent Coordinator (or a dedicated staff person) to serve as a liaison between the school and families. The Parent Coordinator or a dedicated staff person will provide parent workshops based on the assessed needs of the parents of children who attend the school and will work to ensure that the school environment is welcoming and inviting to all parents. The Parent Coordinator will also maintain a log of events and activities planned for parents each month and file a report with the central office.;
- conduct parent workshops with topics that may include: parenting skills, understanding educational accountability grade-level curriculum and assessment expectations; literacy, accessing community and support services; and technology training to build parents' capacity to help their children at home;

- provide opportunities for parents to help them understand the accountability system, e.g., ESSA/State accountability system, student proficiency levels, Annual School Report Card, School Quality Report, Quality Review Report, Learning Environment Survey Report;
- host the required Annual Title I Parent Meeting each school year to advise parents of children participating in the Title I program about the school's Title I funded program(s), their right to be involved in the program and the parent and family engagement requirements under Title I, Part A, Section 1116 and other applicable sections under ESSA;
- schedule additional parent meetings, e.g., quarterly meetings, with flexible times, such as meetings in the morning or evening, to share information about the school's educational program and other initiatives of the Chancellor and allow parents to provide suggestions;
- translate all critical school documents and provide interpretation during meetings and events as needed.

Encouraging School-Level Parental Involvement

The school will further encourage school-level parent and family engagement by:
- hosting educational family events/activities during Parent-Teacher Conferences and throughout the school year;
- encouraging meaningful parent participation on School Leadership Teams, Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association) and Title I Parent Advisory Council;
- supporting or hosting Family Day events;

Title I Program Information

Part 1: Title I Program Type

Title I Requirements and Strengthening Title I Parent Involvement: Under USDOE's Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), Title I schools are required to address professional learning and parent and family engagement in the Comprehensive Education Plan (CEP). To strengthen parent leadership in Title I schools, and increase the involvement of all parents of Title I eligible children in improving students' academic outcomes, all Title I schools are required to establish a Title I Parent Advisory Council (PAC) that will serve as the consultative and representative body for all Title I parents in the school to provide voice into the spending of Title I funds.

The SLT is responsible for facilitating consultation with the Title I Parent Advisory Council regarding the joint development of the CEP, Parent and Family Engagement Policy, School Parent Compact (SPC) and the use of the 1% parent involvement set-aside in Title I schools. The Title I Parent Advisory Council (PAC) Chairperson (or alternate) is expected to attend all regular meetings of the School Leadership Team (SLT). Title I parents, as represented by the Title I PAC Chairperson, must be consulted regarding the use of the Title I 1% set-aside for parent and family engagement. The Title I 1% set-aside funding is used to supplement parent and family engagement activities as described in the school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy and must be aligned with student achievement goals as outlined in the CEP. For additional guidance on the Title I Parent Advisory Council (PAC), go to the Protocols and Timeline for Title I Parent and Family Engagement Activities document.

Directions:

- All schools must indicate their Title I status in Part 1.
- All elements of the All Title I Schools section must be completed in Part 2.
- All Targeted Assistance (TA) Schools must also complete the TA Schools Only section in Part 3.
- All Schoolwide Program (SWP) schools must also complete the SWP Schools Only section in Part 4.
- If a required component is addressed elsewhere in this plan, you may refer to the section or Priority where the response can be found.

HMH Literacy Coach, School Literacy Coach and Private consultant will work with administration, staff and paraprofessionals to provide professional development for HMH and the implementation of the HMH literacy program. Focus will be on designing curriculum calendars and focusing on developing small group work.

Transition Plans to Assist Preschool Children (Elementary Schools Only): Describe the transition plans used to assist preschool children from early childhood programs to the elementary school program (e.g. aligned curriculum, joint PD & parent involvement activities, sharing of records/information, early intervention services, etc.).

Students and parents will be invited to an orientation in August. School-wide materials will be distributed and we will conduct an orientation including a question and answer period. Translators will be present. School staff will be present to review curriculum, school expectations, ways to communicate and special education programs. PTA president and members will be also in attendance.

Part 5: "Conceptual" Consolidation of Funds in SWP Schools

Directions: All Schoolwide Program (SWP) schools in NYC are conceptually consolidating their Federal, State, and Local funds, even though the Galaxy system reports the allocations in separate accounting codes1. To be eligible for the flexibility consolidation of Federal funds, a Schoolwide Program school must identify in its Schoolwide plan (CEP) which programs are included in its consolidation and the amount each program contributes to the consolidated Schoolwide pool. Additionally, the school plan must document that it has met the intent and purposes of each program whose funds are consolidated2. On the chart below, indicate which Federal, State, and/or local Tax Levy program funds that are consolidated in your school's Schoolwide Program, the amount each program contributes to the consolidated Schoolwide pool, and verification that the school has met the intent and purposes of each program whose funds are consolidated.
For the last two columns of this table: Place an (X) in Column A below to verify that the school has met the intent and purposes of each program whose funds are consolidated. Indicate in Column B, the Priority or section that references where a related program activity has been described in this plan.

Explanation/Background

1. Explanation/Background:

Title I Schoolwide Program schools are expected to use the flexibility available to them to integrate services and programs with the aim of enhancing the entire educational program and helping all students reach proficient and advanced levels of achievement. In addition to coordinating and integrating services, Schoolwide Program schools may combine most Federal, State and local funds to provide those services. By consolidating funds from Federal, State, and local sources, a Schoolwide Program school can address its needs using all its available resources. This gives a school more flexibility in how it uses available resources to meet the identified needs of all its students.

Consolidating funds in a Schoolwide Program means that a school treats the funds it is consolidating like they are a single "pool" of funds. In other words, the funds from the contributing programs in the school lose their individual identity and the school has one flexible pool of funds. The school uses funds from this consolidated Schoolwide pool to support any activity of the Schoolwide Program without regard to which program contributed the specific funds used for a particular activity – so long as the use of funds meets the intent and purposes of the programs from which the funds originate. To consolidate funding in a Schoolwide Program, the school does not literally need to combine funds in a single account or pool with its own accounting code. Rather, the word "pool" is used conceptually to convey that a Schoolwide Program school has the use of all consolidated funds available to it for the dedicated function of operating a Schoolwide Program without regard to the identity of those funds.

Consolidating Federal funds in a Schoolwide Program has the following additional advantages:

- Consolidating Federal funds eases the requirements for accounting for funds from each specific program separately, because a Schoolwide school is not required to distinguish among funds received from different sources when accounting for their use.
- A school that consolidates Federal funds in its Schoolwide Program is not required to meet most of the statutory and regulatory requirements of the specific Federal programs included in the consolidation (e.g., semi-annual time and effort reporting for Title I). However, the school must ensure that it meets the intent and purposes of the Federal programs included in the consolidation so that the needs of the intended beneficiaries are met.

2. The intent and purposes of the Federal programs indicated on the chart above (Part 4c of this section) are as follows:

- Title I, Part A – Schoolwide Programs: To upgrade the entire educational program in the school in order to improve the academic achievement of all students, particularly the lowest-achieving students. This includes provision of services for Students in Temporary Housing (STH).
- Title I 1003(a), School Improvement: Comprehensive Support and Improvement (CSI), Additional Targeted Support and Improvement (ATSI) and Targeted Support and Improvement (TSI) Funding:

Support implementation of school improvement plans that aims to improve instruction and address the identified needs

Title II, Part A: Supplementary funding to improve student academic achievement by reducing class size in grades K, 1, 2, and 3, with an emphasis on grades with an average register greater than 20. If space is not available to form additional classes, funds may support push-in teacher(s) to supplement the instructional program. For schools that choose to reduce class size, priority must be given to reducing class size in general education settings and must demonstrate the following:

- Reduce class sizes to 15-18 students or fewer (including the use of co-teaching and floating teachers that bring the student to teacher ratio to one teacher per 15-18 students);
- Be accompanied by a rigorous curriculum, effective teachers, and a sustained, job-embedded professional development plan.

- Title III, Part A: To help ensure that children with limited English proficiency become proficient in English, develop high academic attainment in English, and meet the same challenging State academic content and achievement standards in the core academic subjects that all other children are expected to meet. Another purpose of this program is to increase the capacity of schools to establish, implement and sustain high-quality language instruction programs and English language development programs that assist schools in effectively teaching students with limited English proficiency. Title III, Part A is also designed to promote the participation of parents and communities of limited English proficient children in English language instruction programs.
- Title III Immigrant: Supplementary and enhanced services to immigrant students, in the areas of English language acquisition and content area achievement. Immigrant children and youth are defined as individuals who are aged 3 through 21, have not been attending school in any one or more states for more than three (3) full academic years, and were not born in any state. "State" means the 50 states of the United States, the District of Columbia, and the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico. Children born to U.S. citizens abroad, the U.S. Virgin Islands, or any other U.S. territory that is not D.C. or Puerto Rico are to be considered immigrants.
- Title IV, Part A: Title IV funds are for schools that are among those with the greatest needs, have the highest numbers of students from low-income families, are identified for CS, ATSI or TSI, or are identified as persistently dangerous public schools. Allowable uses of funds under well-rounded education, safety and health, and educational technology include direct services for students, professional development for teachers and administrators, and supplemental educational resources. School allocations have been provided for well-rounded education, social emotional learning, cultural responsiveness awareness, professional development to support implementation of technology and blended learning environments, and community coordinators in schools with high rates of students in temporary housing

- Students in Temporary Housing (STH): Schools must describe their use of Title I STH funds in their consolidated application.

Important Note: The following funds may not be consolidated:

- Title I Parent Involvement Set-aside: Title I, Part A funds must support parent involvement activities and programs. Chancellor's Regulation A-655 requires School Leadership Teams to consult with Title I parent representatives regarding the Title I program and the use of these funds. Parent involvement activities funded through Title I must be included in the Parent and Family Engagement Policy and aligned with student achievement goals in the school comprehensive educational plan.
- IDEA: To ensure that all children with disabilities have available to them a free appropriate public education designed to meet their individual needs.
- Grant funds awarded via a competitive process: These funds must be used for the purposes specified by the Grantor, as described in the school's approved grant application.

Language Allocation Policy Outline

2025-26 Language Allocation Policy (LAP)

This submission form supports schools with organizing a well-conceived school-based Language Allocation Policy (LAP) that describes high quality programs for Multilingual Learners/English Language Learners (MLs/ELLs). This is an annual plan of how your school will support the linguistic and academic needs of MLs/ELLs and must be completed yearly. The Language Allocation Policy (LAP) is a part of schools' Comprehensive Education Plan (CEP).

Part II: Bilingual Programs

Does your school have a bilingual program (Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) or Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE)?

Yes

Provide the number of classrooms for each bilingual program, by grade, at your school for the 2025-26 school year. If submitted before the 2025-26 school year begins, this should be the anticipated number of classrooms based on anticipated enrollment. Each language and program model--Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) or Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE)--is considered a separate program. In the second column, please indicate if the program is General Education (GE), Integrated Co-Teaching (ICT) special education, Special Class (SC), or Mixed-Group Class (MGC) special education. If a classroom bridges two grades, list as 0.5 classrooms for both grades.
Please include the total number of classrooms for each bilingual program in the last column.

Part III: ML/ELL Programming

Please refer to New York State Commissioner's Regulation (CR) Part 154 Units of Study Tables as you describe academic programming for MLs/ELLs at your school below. Please do not leave any fields blank and indicate "N/A" for any fields that are not applicable.

Describe your English as a New Language (ENL), and if applicable Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE), and Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) programs. For each program, include:

- How stand-alone ENL is implemented as per CR Part 154
- How integrated ENL is implemented as per CR Part 154
- How students are grouped (e.g., block [class travels together as a group], ungraded [all students regardless of grade are in one class], heterogeneous [mixed proficiency levels], homogenous [proficiency level is the same in one class]).

a. English as a New Language (ENL)
Stand-alone ENL:

Our stand-alone ENL classes are designed to provide targeted English language instruction to English Language Learners (ELLs) in accordance with New York State's CR Part 154 regulations. In these classes, ELLs receive dedicated instruction from a certified ENL teacher, focusing on developing listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills in English. The curriculum is aligned with both the New York State Next Generation Learning Standards and the English Language Proficiency Standards, ensuring that students build the language skills needed for academic success across all content areas.

Students in stand-alone ENL classes are grouped homogeneously by English proficiency level, as determined by their most recent NYSESLAT or initial ELL identification assessment. This allows teachers to tailor instruction to the specific language development needs of each group and to provide appropriate scaffolding and support. Groups may consist of students from different grade levels if their proficiency levels are similar, but the instruction is always geared to their language needs rather than age or grade.

Integrated ENL:

Integrated ENL is provided in accordance with CR Part 154 by having ELLs receive instruction in content-area classes—such as ELA, math, science, and social studies—taught by a certified content teacher working in collaboration with a certified ENL teacher. In these settings, both language and content objectives are addressed simultaneously. The ENL teacher supports students' English language development within the context of grade-level curriculum, using strategies such as scaffolding, modeling academic language, differentiated instruction, and providing visual and linguistic supports to ensure access to rigorous content.

In integrated ENL classes, ELLs are grouped heterogeneously with their English-proficient peers. This means students of varying language proficiency levels and backgrounds learn together in the same classroom. The presence of both ENL and content-certified teachers allows for targeted language support while students engage with grade-level material alongside their peers. This model fosters inclusion and provides opportunities for English learners to develop both social and academic language in authentic classroom settings.

b. Bilingual Education (If applicable)
Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE):

We do not currently have a Bilingual Education TBE program.

Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE):

Our Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) program is designed to promote bilingualism, biliteracy, and multicultural understanding in accordance with CR Part 154. In this model, instruction is delivered in both English and the partner language (such as Spanish, Mandarin, etc.) by certified bilingual teachers. Students spend portions of the day or week learning academic content in each language, with a structured schedule that ensures equal value and exposure to both. The curriculum is aligned to the New York State Next Generation Learning Standards and is designed to foster high levels of academic achievement in both languages. Teachers use a variety of strategies to support language development, including scaffolding content, leveraging students' home languages, and incorporating culturally relevant materials.

DLBE classes are intentionally heterogeneous, grouping English Language Learners (ELLs) who speak the partner language with English-proficient students. This mixed grouping allows students to serve as language models for each other, promoting language development in both English and the partner language. Students remain with their DLBE cohort for instruction, forming a learning community that supports both academic and social growth in two languages. This model fosters collaboration, cross-cultural understanding, and equitable access to rigorous content for all students.

2. How does your school ensure the mandated number of instructional minutes are provided according to students' English language proficiency levels in each program model?

The 360 minutes are divided, with 180 minutes devoted to standalone ENL and 180 minutes devoted to integrated ENL in one of the four content areas. If a MLL/ELL is identified as Transitioning or Expanding, they receive 180 minutes of integrated ENL in one of the four content areas. For students identified as Entering or Emerging the minimum number of minutes per week is 360. By choosing option A in the alternative pathways for commanding ELLs, these students receive 90 minutes of small-group instruction by their classroom teacher. This instruction targets their language needs (ie: guided reading, guided writing, word work, choice board centers, inquiry groups, etc). This schedule is also followed by our MLL/ELL in the Mandarin DL program. We periodically check for errors on STARS to ensure that all students, including new admits, have been properly placed and are receiving the mandated number of instructional minutes per week. We also use the data from the monthly EDUR report.

To ensure instructional minutes are fully served each day, we create detailed schedules for all MLL/ELL students based on their English proficiency levels and regularly review them to avoid conflicts or missed sessions. ENL and classroom teachers use daily lesson plans and attendance records to track that students are present for both stand-alone and integrated ENL instruction. Program coordinators and administrators routinely monitor class rosters and instructional logs, making adjustments as needed to accommodate changes in enrollment or student needs. We also use data from STARS and monthly EDUR reports to verify that every student receives their mandated minutes on an ongoing basis.

3. How are ENL, English Language Arts (ELA) and if applicable, Home Language Arts (HLA) instructional minutes delivered in each program model?

In our ENL program, either dually licensed teachers implement lessons with ENL scaffolds and strategies, or a licensed ENL teacher pushes in to co-teach core subjects during the integrated class time. For standalone ENL, teachers work in small groups, helping beginner students to acquire the language necessary to successfully participate in the core subject areas. Supplementary phonics instruction is used as part of the Standalone program, along with decodable readers. English Language Arts instruction is taught through the delivery of lessons in reading, writing, Fundations, Heggerty and phonics instruction. Home Language arts instruction is delivered by the bilingual licensed teacher. Reading, writing, speaking and listening are taught in the target home language of students in the Dual Language program through the use of translated HMH texts and the MeiZhou Chinese language program.

4. For schools with Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) programs:

a. Which Dual Language Bilingual Education model is implemented? Explain how much of the instructional day (percentage) English proficient students and ELLs are integrated.

Our school offers a side-by-side Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) program. 50% of the instructional day learning in English and 50% in the Mandarin. In this model, students are grouped into two classes: one receives instruction primarily in English, and the other in Mandarin. Both groups follow the same curriculum and learning standards, but each is taught in its designated language for specific content areas. Throughout the week, students from both groups interact and participate in joint activities, allowing them to practice both languages in academic and social contexts. Certified bilingual teachers coordinate closely to ensure that students in both classes are progressing in the same academic content and language skills. The side-by-side setup allows English Language Learners (ELLs) and English-proficient students to learn alongside one another, fostering bilingualism, biliteracy, and cultural understanding. Students are grouped heterogeneously by language background, so they serve as language models for each other and support each other's development in both English and the partner language. This approach creates a balanced, inclusive environment where all students have equitable access to rigorous instruction in both languages.

b. In which language(s) is each core content area taught?

English and Mandarin are the languages taught in each core content area.

5. For schools with Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) programs:

a. Which core content areas are taught bilingually?

ELA, math, science and social studies are taught bilingually.

Part IV: Data Analysis

Data Analysis

After reviewing and analyzing school demographic and assessment data, answer the following questions. The ELL Data Analysis Tool (EDAT) provided by the Office of Multilingual Learners can assist with identifying these data points.

For additional information, refer to Data Analysis Professional Learning Module and ELL Data Analysis Tool (EDAT) Professional Learning Module.

1. What is the composition of the ELL subgroups at your school?
What percentage of ELLs are Newcomers? How does effective instruction for Newcomers differ from those provided to Developing or Long-Term ELLs?

39% of our ELLs are newcomers, 61% are developing and 0% are long term. Effective instruction for Newcomers looks pretty different compared to what works best for Developing or Long-Term ELLs. Newcomers need more support with the basics: survival vocabulary, classroom routines, and foundational English that lets them navigate daily life at school. Visuals, gestures, modeling, and lots of repetition go a long way. Lessons are usually scaffolded to help them access content while they're still picking up the language. Developing ELLs, who have some English benefit from explicit language instruction but also need more academic vocabulary and practice using language in different contexts. For Long-Term ELLs, the focus shifts to closing any lingering gaps—especially with academic language, reading comprehension, and writing skills, so they can fully participate in grade-level classes.

What percentage of ELLs are Students with Inconsistent/Interrupted Formal Education (SIFE)? How do you differentiate effective instruction for SIFE?

We do not have any SIFE students. Our plan to support SIFE students in the future would be to provide targeted, highly individualized instruction that addresses both language and gaps in foundational academic skills, along with strong social-emotional supports, we ensure that SIFE students have the opportunity to catch up, thrive, and access the full curriculum.

What percentage of ELLs are Long-Term ELLs? How does effective instruction for Long-Term ELLs differ from instruction designed for Developing ELLs?

Zero percent of our ELLs are Long Term.

At our school, it's especially important to recognize that Long-Term ELLs require more than just extra time with English—they need focused help with academic language and literacy to succeed in their classes. That means our teaching should go beyond the basics and include direct instruction in advanced reading and writing, as well as targeted work on academic vocabulary and grammar. We also have to be intentional about identifying and filling in any gaps in background knowledge that might be holding these students back in core subjects. Just as important, we need to pay attention to their motivation and confidence.

What percentage of students are former ELLs? How is your school providing mandated instruction to former ELLs?

16.4% of students are former English Language Learners (ELLs). Our school provides mandated instruction to former ELLs by continuing to monitor their academic progress for at least two years after they exit ELL status. During this period, we offer targeted support as needed, such as additional language development resources, classroom accommodations, and access to intervention services. Teachers regularly review student performance to ensure former ELLs are meeting grade-level expectations and adjust support to help them succeed.

2. Examine all at-risk levels that might adversely affect ELLs at your school. What trends do you notice about the at-risk levels of ELLs at your school?

The at-risk levels among ELLs (English Language Learners) at my school reveal some clear and concerning trends. First, the overwhelming majority of ELLs—88.8%—are Newcomers. This suggests that most of our ELL population is still in the early stages of English acquisition, which puts them at a higher risk for academic struggles as they adapt to a new language and culture. Looking at academic performance, 15.6% of ELLs scored at level 1 or 2 on the New York State ELA test, and 11.3% scored at level 1 or 2 on the state math test. While these percentages are lower than the Newcomer rate, they still indicate that a significant portion of ELLs are not meeting grade-level expectations, especially in English Language Arts. This gap in ELA is particularly significant because language proficiency underpins success in all other subjects. Another key data point is that 31.9% of ELLs did not demonstrate sufficient progress in English language proficiency on the NYSESLAT. This means nearly a third of ELLs are not making the expected gains in learning English, which could hinder their ability to exit ELL services and succeed independently in mainstream classrooms. A clear trend emerges: the largest risk factor for ELLs at our school is being a Newcomer. Since most of our ELLs are recent arrivals, they face compounded challenges—adjusting to a new country, learning a new language, and trying to keep up academically. The data also show that, while a smaller group struggles with state tests and language progress, these students are likely overlapping with the Newcomer group, indicating a strong correlation between length of time in ELL services and risk levels.

3. Examine all at-risk levels that might adversely affect former ELLs at your school. What trends do you notice about the at-risk levels of former ELLs at your school?

When looking at at-risk levels among former ELLs at our school, a few important patterns stand out. According to the data, 13.9% of former ELLs scored at level 1 or 2 on the New York State ELA test. This means that even after exiting ELL services, a notable portion of students are still struggling with English language arts and may not be fully proficient. This suggests that exiting ELL status doesn't necessarily mean students are ready to handle grade-level academic demands on their own. Additionally, 6.1% of former ELLs scored at level 1 or 2 on the ELA exam two years ago. Compared to the current year's 13.9%, this could indicate either an increase in students at risk or that some students continue to struggle for multiple years after exiting ELL services. It raises the concern that academic challenges can persist for former ELLs well after testing out of the NYSESLAT. As for math, only 3.5% of former ELLs scored at level 1 or 2 on the state math test. This percentage is lower than those struggling in ELA, which might suggest that former ELLs are able to catch up more quickly in math than in English possibly because the language demands in math are different. The trend across these numbers tells us that former ELLs are most at risk in English language arts, both immediately after exiting services and even years later. The risk in math is present, but to a lesser extent. The data suggest that language proficiency gaps can linger long after students are reclassified, and that ongoing monitoring and support especially in reading and writing may be necessary to help former ELLs succeed.

4. What are the home languages of ELLs with the largest representation at your school? What staff, structures, and processes does your school have to support communication and learning that values these home languages?

The home languages with the largest representation among ELLs at our school are Chinese (243 students) and Spanish (72 students). To support communication and learning that values these home languages, our school has bilingual staff members and interpreters for both Chinese and Spanish. We provide translated materials, offer family workshops in these languages, and collaborate with community liaisons to ensure families are informed and engaged. In the classroom, teachers use culturally responsive strategies and incorporate students' home languages when possible to build understanding and affirm students' identities.

5. What are the racial and ethnic classifications of ELLs at your school? How are ELLs being included in planning and delivery of Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Education (CR-SE)?

The racial and ethnic makeup of ELLs at my school is highly concentrated in a few groups, with some representation from others. The majority of ELLs identify as Asian, making up 97.6% of the ELL population. Hispanic students are the next largest group, comprising 67.6%. (This percentage likely overlaps with other categories, as students can identify as both Hispanic and another race.) Other groups are represented in much smaller numbers: 1.2% of ELLs are American Indian or Alaskan Native, 0.8% identify as multiracial, and 0.4% are white. These numbers show that the ELL population at my school is overwhelmingly Asian, with a significant Hispanic presence, and very limited representation from other racial and ethnic backgrounds.

To ensure ELLs are included in the planning and delivery of Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Education (CR-SE), our school takes a multi-layered approach. Every Monday during period 1, each class participates in a culturally responsive read-aloud that highlights different cultures and ties into our monthly celebrations, such as Black History Month, Women's Month, and Hispanic Heritage Month. In addition, our cluster teachers plan monthly activities focused on CR-SE work, which further deepen students' engagement with diverse histories, cultures, and perspectives. ELLs are also part of the student council, which allows them to have a direct voice in planning school events and initiatives related to cultural inclusion. Teachers and staff gather input from ELL students and families, use multilingual resources, and create opportunities for student voice throughout classroom discussions, projects, and cultural events, making CR-SE a central and collaborative part of our school's culture.

6. What trends do you notice in reviewing English Language Proficiency (ELP) growth at your school? How many students met ELP sufficient progress? How many students did not meet ELP sufficient progress?

Looking at the English Language Proficiency (ELP) growth data, there are a few things that stand out. A total of 34% of students met ELP sufficient progress by exiting ELL status, which means they achieved full proficiency and no longer need language support. Another 11.9% met their annual progress targets, showing they're on track but haven't exited yet. An additional 1.5% made safe harbor cumulative growth—so they're making some progress, even if it's not at the expected rate.

Altogether, this means about 47.4% met some form of ELP sufficient progress. That leaves roughly 52.6% of students who did not meet ELP sufficient progress this year.

The trend here is that while a solid group of students are making enough growth to meet or exceed expectations, just over half are still struggling to hit those targets. This suggests the school may need to look at extra supports, new strategies, or different approaches to help more students make the progress they need.

7. When you look at the results of the New York State English as a Second Language Achievement Test (NYSESLAT), what stands out? What trends are there for each modality?

When you look at the results of the New York State English as a Second Language Achievement Test (NYSESLAT), a few things immediately stand out: The largest group is “Expanding ELLs,” with 37.7% of students falling into this category. This suggests that a significant portion of English Language Learners are making solid progress—they’re past the very beginning stages but haven’t yet reached full proficiency. “Former ELLs” make up 22.8%, which is encouraging: more than one in five students have exited ELL status, indicating that many students are successfully moving through the program and achieving language proficiency. Looking at the earlier stages, “Emerging ELLs” (17%) and “Entering ELLs” (7.3%) together account for about a quarter of the students. That’s a smaller share compared to the more advanced categories, which could mean that new ELLs are being added at a slower rate than students are progressing, or that the instructional supports are helping most students move out of the earliest stages relatively quickly. “Transitioning ELLs” represent 15.2%, which is notably lower than the “Expanding” group. This could suggest that the jump from “Expanding” to “Transitioning” is a challenging one for many students, or that once students reach “Transitioning,” they move through this stage more quickly. As for trends by modality, the data as presented groups students by proficiency level rather than listening, speaking, reading, or writing. But the overall distribution points to a system where most students are moving beyond the beginner phases, with a strong pipeline making it to higher proficiency and eventually becoming former ELLs. It also hints that supports at the “Expanding” and “Transitioning” levels may be crucial for students to continue making progress.

8. What is the relationship between students’ performance on the NYSESLAT and other state assessments such as the ELA assessment, the Math assessment, and the Regents exams?

There is a clear, positive relationship between students’ performance on the NYSESLAT and their scores on ELA state assessment. Our data shows , almost all ELLs are still developing English proficiency (Entering, Emerging, Transitioning), and this is reflected in their ELA test scores—most are in the lowest levels, with very few reaching Level 3 or 4. This pattern illustrates that as English proficiency increases (higher NYSESLAT levels), students are more likely to achieve higher scores on state assessments. Conversely, students at lower NYSESLAT levels tend to have lower scores on content assessments, not necessarily because they lack content knowledge, but because they have not yet developed the English skills needed to fully access and demonstrate that knowledge on these tests.

There is a strong, positive relationship between students’ NYSESLAT proficiency and their Math state test scores. Most students at the Entering, Emerging, and Transitioning levels of English proficiency scored at Level 1 or 2 on the Math test. In contrast, students at the Expanding and Commanding NYSESLAT levels were far more likely to score at Level 3 or 4. This pattern shows that as English language proficiency increases, students are better able to access and demonstrate their math knowledge, even on assessments that are less language-dependent than ELA. Thus, improving English proficiency supports improved performance across all state assessments, including math.

9. What are trends reflected in the NYSESLAT results of ELL subgroups such as ELLs with IEPs and SIFE? What do you think is impacting the results for these subgroups?

The NYSESLAT results for ELL subgroups like ELLs with IEPs and SIFE show that while most students are making progress into the Transitioning and Expanding levels, those with the most significant needs tend to remain at the lower proficiency levels for longer. The slower progress for these groups is typically due to the added challenges of disabilities , which require more time and targeted support to overcome. Continued attention to individualized instruction and support for these subgroups will be key to helping them move toward English proficiency.

Since there are no SIFE students in the school, these trends are solely influenced by the needs and progress of ELLs with IEPs, highlighting the importance of ongoing, individualized support for these students.

Part V: ML/ELL Instruction

Tier 1: Core Instruction

For additional information, refer to ML/ELL Instruction Professional Learning Module.

Tier 1 Core Instruction

1. How does your school provide ELLs with a high-quality academic experience that leads to deeper learning?

Our curriculum is inclusive and incorporates diverse cultural perspectives and resources for all learners. Teachers differentiate instruction to support the varied academic and linguistic needs of the class. They scaffold lessons, use visual aids, incorporate the use of technology, and provide hands-on activities for students to complete. Students are given opportunities to work collaboratively with peers to practice language in context. Teachers provide students with translated texts in their home language to help students make connections to deepen their learning.

Professional learning occurs throughout the year and the staff is provided with strategies to use within the classroom. Parent workshops are held to engage families in understanding the programs and learning that is happening in the classroom. This allows parents to support their children at home. Classroom visits were held in the fall and the spring. Parents were invited to observe the learning in action.

Teachers use different forms of assessment to plan for instruction. This data is then reviewed at data chats where teachers meet with administrators and colleagues to discuss patterns and trends. This reflection allows for teachers to adapt instruction to best meet the needs of their students.

Our school offers different programs for our ELLs. These include Dual Language (Mandarin) and ENL instruction.

2. How does your school's leadership team ensure ELLs have access to core instruction/curriculum?

Our school created several teams whose objectives are to consider MLs/ELLs in the instructional design. The ILET (Instruction Leadership Equity Team) is in charge of establishing and building capacity around our school-wide priority and its goals. The school's Literacy Priority is to utilize our data systems in order to identify areas of strengths and areas for growth in reading. We engage in a targeted professional learning where teachers use data to plan for explicit whole class instruction as well small group instruction using strategies to obtain skills. These strategy lessons focus on giving students a step by step process for being able to implement the skill they need to practice independently. ILET often discusses how we can use professional development to plan for ways to support students in areas for reading growth.

The ILET team analyzed data from screeners such as Acadience K-2, I Ready 3-5, and district-wide data, to identify areas of need. Individual and grade level data chats highlighted areas of need in reading. This data was also discussed at ILET The Acadience assessment diagnosed strengths and focus areas for our learners with phonemic awareness fluency, and oral reading fluency. The I-ready assessment diagnosed strengths and focus areas for our learners with phonemic awareness, phonics, high frequency words, vocabulary and comprehension (informational and literature). The outcomes of these assessments have indicated that our Hispanic students and ELL students with IEPs are performing below grade level in reading. This data led to the following equity based problem of practice for our school: How do we utilize our data systems to increase reading comprehension of informational texts for our Hispanic learners and ELL students with an IEP that are performing below grade level standards in reading?

The ILET worked to identify short term and long term goals based on data collected during the iReady and Acadience assessments. The growth of students is monitored through beginning of the year assessment (BOY) and middle of the year assessment (MOY) data. After administering the Math iReady BOY for students in grades K-5, data indicates that a high percentage of students in the Hispanic ELLs/SWDs populations scored below grade level in math. Using this data, the team identifies the problem of practice in our school as how do we use our data systems (iReady, Envisions, Walk Through Tool) to strategically target key math skills to improve the level of our Hispanic ELLs/SWDs that are performing below grade level in geometry/measurement and data.

This team discusses how to best support teachers with implementing our school priority. There are frequent opportunities for labsites and intervisitations where teachers visit each other while one is teaching. This provides an opportunity for teachers to learn from each other. The lessons are often discussed or planned collaboratively. The ILET often discusses the effectiveness of these intervisitations where a plan for future professional development is discussed. Instructional coaches also use an Explicit Instruction Checklist as a tool during their walk- throughs. This helps to gather data and is presented at ILET. The ILET discusses areas of strengths and needs in order to plan for future professional development.

Another team our school has formed in collaboration with the ILET is the Triple C (Culturally Sensitive, Come to School, & Connect). The framework for the Triple C team is grounded in four principles: Welcoming and Affirming Environment, High expectations and rigorous instruction, Inclusive curriculum and assessment, and ongoing professional learning. School events that supported our SEL work include CPR Mondays, which focuses on culturally responsive read aloud texts and monthly school wide celebrations (including Hispanic Heritage, Lunar New Year, Black History, Women's History, Poetry, Asian Pacific American Heritage and Pride). MLs/ELLs are included in all SEL activities.

Our HMH literacy program focuses on different areas of literacy learning. One area being building comprehension. Teachers use the end of module assessment data to plan for small group instruction. They also use the data they gather from checking in with students during lessons, and independent work time. Small groups are formed from the data, where a strategy is emphasized for the skill. The strategy is broken down into clear steps so that it provides a scaffold for students to implement the skill . Professional development has supported teachers with the development of strategies. The teacher would directly model using the step by step guide as a think-aloud. Then there is a gradual release of teacher support where students are encouraged to practice the skill, before then implementing this skill independently into texts teachers provide to ensure the skill is practiced further.

Another component of the HMH literacy program is vocabulary development. One way our school works to increase targeted academic vocabulary is through the use of center based activities. During center activities students are grouped based on data. The centers have scaffolded activities that support students with the vocabulary from the module, or other vocabulary that is needed in order to meet their language development needs.

During the math topics of study, teachers provide support for solving word problems by using the Three Read Protocol. This protocol supports students with solving challenging word problems by reading them closely at least three times with a different goal each time. This scaffolded approach will allow students to comprehend the word problem which will lead to a better success at solving it. In addition, teachers begin their math lessons with a math routine so that students can get their minds ready for the day's lesson. This is a scaffold that is helpful because it provides connections for what they will be learning and builds language as students engage in conversations. In addition, students are encouraged to work collaboratively to solve math problems. This discussion allows ELLs to build academic language as they work with others.

3. Describe how core content is delivered in each program model. Specify language, and the instructional approaches and methods to foster language development and meet the demands of the Next Generation Learning Standards.

The content areas are delivered in each program model by using the six types of scaffolding techniques which include modeling, bridging, contextualization, schema building, text re-presentation, and metacognition. Teachers at P.S. 163 use these techniques in the following ways. When modeling, our teachers demonstrate what they want the student to do first, or complete the task together. When teachers use bridging as a technique, they allow students to access their prior knowledge in order to make a connection to the current lesson. Through contextualization, our teachers provide visual support that the student can understand when language is not enough. Schema building is critical when learning a new concept for the first time. Our teachers allow students to preview information by using graphic organizers to gather information in pieces in order to understand the whole. When using text re-presentation, students get an opportunity to use academic language by presenting it in another fashion either orally or in written form. Our teachers show the students how to use metacognition by teaching them multiple strategies that they can apply when performing a task. The students are allowed this ability because the teachers have taught strategies within the scaffolding techniques that students can rely on. The current innovations in content area study all involve the New York State standards. Teachers' increase rigor in their lessons through Depths of Knowledge (DOK) by challenging their students through leveled questions. The Mary Ann Cucchiara workshops provide the city with the latest strategies that help support language development for NGS. The strategies include: juicy sentences, deconstruct/reconstruct, conversation frames for cause and effect, paragraph frames for summarizing chapters, and academic language frames to add tier three and four words when writing and speaking.

In each model program the materials vary by subject. In ELA, we use HMH Into Reading and Writing as our literacy curriculum, which includes a word study component. FUNdations is used in K-3 and Heggerty is used in K-2 as foundational components. In social studies we are using the NYC Passport program which includes Civics for All. In math, all programs use enVisions Math, which includes workbooks and a media component that gives all the students a visual model. In science, all classes use the Amplified science program. Hands-on experiments are conducted in the science lab as well as in the classroom. All lessons are conducted in English, unless students are in our dual language program, where the languages of instruction are Mandarin and English.

4. What instructional strategies and grade-level materials, including technology, do teachers of MLs/ELLs use to provide access to grade level academic content areas and accelerate English language development? Include core content area and language materials with consideration to specific ELL subgroups.

a. ELLs with IEPs

ELLs with IEPS must have access to instruction designed to help them meet the expectations. Various strategies known to be effective with English learners with IEPs include drawing on their prior knowledge, providing opportunities to review previously learned concepts and utilizing numerous scaffolds. Students can connect to the topics through our Culturally Powerful Read Alouds (CPR). Through CPR Mondays, students learn about other cultures and backgrounds, as well as identifying with their own culture. Our HMH Into Reading and Writing Program includes diversity in stories that allows students to explore and learn about different cultures. All ELLs with IEPS engage in curriculum and complete rigorous tasks at their level.

ELLs with IEPs would be given opportunities to be part of peer support groups where they would collaborate in projects and activities. To provide access to academic content areas, scaffolds such as picture support, anchor charts, technology (videos), TPR (total physical response), peer support, native language support, previewing texts, frontloading vocabulary, and eliciting background knowledge may be used to accelerate their English language development.

b. SIFE

Our plan for addressing the needs of SIFE students include many scaffolds such as picture support, anchor charts, technology (videos), TPR (total physical response), peer support, native language support, previewing texts, frontloading vocabulary, eliciting background knowledge. We also have CPR (Culturally Powerful Read Alouds) Mondays to learn about new cultures to promote diversity. Through CPR Mondays, students learn about other cultures and backgrounds, as well as identifying with their own culture. Our HMH curriculum includes diversity in stories that allow students to explore and learn about different cultures. All SIFE students engage in all grade level curriculum and complete rigorous tasks at their level.

c. Newcomers

The entry point for newcomers requires many scaffolds such as picture support, anchor charts, technology (videos), TPR (total physical response), peer support, native language support, previewing texts, frontloading vocabulary, eliciting background knowledge. In addition, during standalone time, students are provided with foundational skills through supplemental programs like Heggerty and FUNdations. Decodables are used throughout the week to transfer these skills, along with building language in the four modalities.

We also have CPR (Culturally Powerful Read Alouds) Mondays to learn about new cultures to promote diversity. Through CPR Mondays, students learn about other cultures and backgrounds, as well as identifying with their own culture. Our HMH Program includes diversity in stories that allow students to explore and learn about different cultures. All Newcomer ELLs engage in all grade level curriculum and complete rigorous tasks at their level.

d. Long Term ELLs

Currently, our school does not have any Long-Term ELLs enrolled. All of our MLs/ELLs participate in ENL services and language development supports appropriate to their years in program and proficiency levels. Instructional strategies for our current ELL population include scaffolded assignments, visual aids, anchor charts, technology integration (such as videos and interactive apps), peer collaboration, and frontloading vocabulary to support access to grade-level content. During ENL instructional time, students also receive targeted foundational skills instruction using programs like Heggerty, FUNdations, and Phonics for Reading, and all students are expected to engage in rigorous, grade-level academic tasks.

5. What supports does your school provide to ELLs with IEPs to achieve their IEP goals and attain English language proficiency within the least restrictive environment?

Our school achieves IEP and English proficiency goals for ELL-SWDs by providing the following support:

Curricular- Depending on the students' needs, all lessons are differentiated to meet the needs of all students. Teachers can teach at a slower pace and redo lessons the next day if students do not succeed at the first attempt. They can tweak the curriculum depending on the student's success. In addition, trade books are used on the student's level to reach goals, such as retelling of stories. We also increase home language support and interventions through iReady online work assigned to students.

Instructional- Teachers meet with students 1:1 and in small groups. The teacher changes the instructional strategies and scaffolds instruction in order to achieve the same intended outcomes. For example, pictorial support, modifying the amount of input/prompting given to students, and longer time frame for teachers to teach. The classrooms are equipped with Promethean boards. This technology helps students answer questions by supporting them with pictures, words, video clips, and oral presentations. We also meet with speech and language professionals to provide strategies that can help be applied in a classroom setting.
Scheduling Flexibility- Within the least restrictive environment in mind, we look to move students who are succeeding into a less restrictive setting. For example, if students are doing well in ELA or math, we offer a less restrictive classroom for that area of study.

6. How is home language assessed in each program model (DLBE, TBE, and ENL)?

In our Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) program, students' home language proficiency is assessed formally and informally. We use teacher-created rubrics, oral language interviews, writing samples, and observations to evaluate students' listening, speaking, reading, and writing skills in their home language (Mandarin). Assessment data is collected periodically and used to inform instruction and measure language growth over time.

In the Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) program, home language assessment occurs through initial placement screenings, classroom observations, and ongoing performance tasks in the home language. Teachers assess students' ability to understand and produce academic content in their native language, using writing samples, oral presentations, and reading comprehension activities.

In the English as a New Language (ENL) program, students' home language proficiency is informally assessed when they enroll, using interviews and language surveys to gather information about their background and abilities. While the main focus is on English development, teachers may use native language writing or conversation samples as needed to support instruction and monitor progress, especially for newcomers. Across all models, assessment results are used to guide differentiation and identify the need for additional supports.

7. (For grades 6-12 only) What language electives are offered to MLs/ELLs? How is your school preparing MLs/ELLs to obtain the New York State Seal of Biliteracy?

NA

8. Describe systems and structures for supporting co-teaching and collaboration among teachers for all ELL program models available at your school (e.g. integrated co-teaching, Dual Language Bilingual Education teacher partnerships, etc.).

Common preps are built into the schedule to allow for collaboration. ENL and Dual Language teachers are part of the professional learning and planning sessions throughout the year with their grade. They also participate in the lab sites and inter-visitations. The work with our literacy consultant, Annie Toranto, supports the need for pedagogical improvement. Teachers meet during this time to work on a skill. We then visit classrooms to see the planning in action. We have multiple sessions scheduled for this work.

9. Describe how your overall, annual professional learning plan ensures that all staff – including administrators, teachers and -non-pedagogical staff – incorporates learning specifically related to the academic and social emotional needs of MLs/ELLs. Professional learning topics might include co-teaching strategies, or integrating language and content instruction.

Our annual professional learning plan is designed to ensure that all staff—including administrators, teachers, and non-pedagogical staff—receive training that addresses both the academic and social-emotional needs of Multilingual Learners/English Language Learners (MLs/ELLs). Professional development offerings throughout the year include topics such as co-teaching strategies, integrating language and content instruction, and supporting ELLs with core programs like HMH Into Reading. Staff also participate in sessions focused on child abuse and cyber awareness, safety protocols, chronic absenteeism, and classroom interventions, as well as guidance on social-emotional learning (SEL) supports. School-wide initiatives include art therapy, Sanford Harmony, Mind Up curriculum, SEL classroom lessons, and the District 25 SEL Survey for grades 3-5, in addition to mandated trainings such as Respect for All and suicide prevention. These varied learning opportunities ensure that all members of our school community are equipped to support the holistic development of our MLs/ELLs both academically and socially.

10. Describe your school's professional development plan in order to meet the mandated Continuing Teacher and Leader Education (CTLE) ELL specific hours for certification renewal as per CR Part 154 (15% of total hours for all certified faculty [holders of professional certificates in the classroom teaching service, educational leadership service and level III teaching assistant certificate holders] and 50% of total hours for bilingual education/ENL teachers receive ELL-specific professional development).

Teachers are sent to district ENL and math trainings, where CTLE hours are provided. These trainings count towards the hours needed to maintain a professional license in TESOL. Teachers are also given opportunities to attend outside workshops.

Our ENL/bilingual teachers receive 50% professional development by attending workshops specified for ENL students. In addition, on Chancellor and Monday PD days will provide an opportunity for workshops to be held in-house with our coaches.

At the beginning of the year, our ENL Coordinator will present a workshop on how to read and analyze the RLAT report, so that teachers know how to identify their ELLs, and understand their current proficiency level, and how they scored on the latest NYSESLAT (or NYSITELL) exam.

To continue to bolster academic language our coaches will provide workshops using the Word Meaning protocol in the four content areas. Also, this year we will continue to improve reading skills by looking at data and developing strategies in a step by step process. A gradual release of support will be used to support students with acquiring these skills independently. The coaches will provide professional development on Mondays to support this initiative.

During testing time, the ENL Coordinator will present best practices for test sophistication (March), explaining what the NYSESLAT exam comprises, and how to best prepare students to take this test. The assistant principal will lead the second professional development session on proper exam proctoring procedures.

Assessment

SCREENERS

11. Which screening assessments (e.g.iReady, MAP Growth, Acadience, or STAR Reading) does your school use to guide instructional planning for your ELLs?

We use iReady (3-5) and Acadience (K-2) as a screening tool for Reading to assist with differentiation of lessons and to track students' needs and growth over a specific period of time. We use iReady in grades K-5 as a math screener.
The teacher tool box on iReady gives the teacher resources to assign specific work targeting the skills within the areas of need. The program also sets the students up on their own individual pathways for independent use. Data is gathered for teachers to analyze and develop appropriate lessons. Teachers also read the data from the BOY (beginning of year assessment) and the middle of the year assessment to plan small group instruction. The EOY (end of year assessment) shows how much progress they have made in the school year.

12. For all grades, list and describe your targeted intervention programs for ELLs in ELA, Math, and other core content areas (specify ELL subgroups targeted). Include the language(s) in which the intervention services are offered.

In Tier 1, we support the ELLs through phonological, morphological, and syntactic awareness. Through our HMH curriculum, the teachers use the gradual release model in each lesson to support their fluency in reading . During standalone time, we use intervention programs such as FUNdations or Heggerty based on the need of the students. These services are provided in English.
Our targeted intervention programs for ELA, math and other content areas are as follow:
Newcomers- MTSS support in ELA and math throughout the year.
Morning program- Benchmark Express (all ELL levels in K-2)
Afternoon program- Hello (beginner ELLs in 3-5)
Developing ELLs- MTSS support in ELA
Long-Term ELLs- MTSS support in ELA throughout the year.
SIFE- AIS support in ELA and math throughout the year.
Former ELLs- AIS support in ELA and math throughout the year.
All programs are offered in English. Dual language students in grades K-5 are offered content taught in English and Mandarin.

13. For all grades, describe how your school uses data to guide instruction for ELLs within a Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS). Refer to the Instructional Leadership Tool for MLs and ELLs and MTSS Guide for MLs and ELLs to help in the development and implementation of your school's plan for MLs/ELLs.

Students who are identified as needing more support will receive MTSS. Our instructional coaches reviewed the district data which indicated the students in most need . Based on the results, groups were formed according to areas of need. For students in a comprehension group, a running record might be administered at the beginning of the first cycle. The students will take another running record assessment at the end of the cycle to see if their reading levels increased. For students needing additional foundational support, Phonics for Reading or FUNdations might be used. Progress monitoring will occur throughout the cycle. If there is no growth, the teacher will bring the student up at a PPT meeting to see if there will be other recommendations like Tier 3 intervention. The student will be invited to before/after school/Saturday literacy programs.

FORMATIVE

14. Which formative assessments (e.g. NYC performance Tasks, ELL Periodic Assessment, HLA Assessment, DRA, teacher-created assessments, etc.) are used to inform and drive instruction?

We will administer the Beginning of Year (BOY), Middle of year (MOY, and End of year (EOY) I Ready in grades 3-5 and Acadience in grades K-2. The BOY will inform the teacher of the area of need. Teachers will plan lessons around students' needs The MOY will indicate growth on how well students did with interventions. The students will take the End of Year (EOY) to measure growth in the areas of need.

We plan to use the Envisions math assessments after each topic of study. We will use the HMH Into Reading module and weekly assessments to measure growth after every unit of study. The data from these assessments will help form differentiated small groups for instruction. The data from these assessments will help assign correct lexile leveled books to each student. This data is also used to help the teacher form groups for differentiated instruction and flexibility.

For our Dual Language program, the teachers create their own assessments in literacy. These assessments help determine differentiated instruction in small groups. The Envisions math curriculum is translated into Mandarin. The assessments in math are the same as in the non- DL classrooms. The data collected from these assessments help guide instruction and form differentiated small groups.

15. How do you ensure that MLs/ELLs are appropriately evaluated in their home languages throughout the year?

As students enter our school, the Spanish Lab is administered to Spanish speaking students who are identified as MLLs. In our K-5 Chinese dual language classes, we use formative assessments throughout the year to determine the students' strengths in their native language by using running records, end of unit assessments in math, individual conferences, small group instruction, and guided reading groups. All grade 3-5 MLLs are given the option of taking the mathematics or science state exams in their native language. We also distribute glossaries in various languages in order for students to understand all exam questions.

SUMMATIVE

16. Which summative assessments (e.g. NYSESLAT, ELA, Math, Regents, etc.) are used to evaluate the effectiveness of your ML/ELL programs and how does it inform instructional design and curricular decisions? (Refer to the ELL Data Analysis Tool).

The latest NYSESLAT and NYSITELL, daily tracked attendance, NY State ELA and Math Exams, 5th grade Science test and the NYC Chinese Reading Test. The EDAT is used to learn the risk levels of our students. The report helps with supporting different subgroups to meet their needs.

17. What is your NYSESLAT administration plan? How does your school ensure that all ELLs are tested with the NYSESLAT annually? Include the titles of the staff that will administer and score the assessment. Please describe your plan to ensure that all ELLs and former ELLs continue to receive mandated instruction during the testing period.

We administered the NYSESLAT to all our ELLs and sent letters to parents in their preferred language. During the testing period, ELLs and former ELLs continued to receive their mandated instructional minutes from TESOL-licensed classroom teachers. Each teacher participated in the NYSESLAT administration and then returned to their class to resume services. The staff involved in the administration of the NYSESLAT are described below.

18. How does your school ensure that current and former ELLs receive necessary accommodations for state assessments, including the Specialized High School Admissions Test (SHSAT) if applicable?

Our school ensures that current and former ELLs receive all necessary accommodations for state assessments, including the Specialized High School Admissions Test (SHSAT), by closely following state and NYC DOE guidelines. We maintain updated records of eligible students and review their accommodation needs prior to each testing period. Teachers and testing coordinators are trained to implement accommodations such as extended time, separate testing locations, translated glossaries, and oral translations as appropriate. Communication with families is provided in their preferred language, and we collaborate with guidance counselors to make sure students are given the correct accommodations. Regular monitoring and documentation guarantee that both current and former ELLs receive equitable support throughout the testing process.

Part VI: Family Partnership

Family Partnership

Required Meetings Under CR Part 154

Describe your schools' plan to ensure families of ELLs are provided with the required meetings specified below as per CR Part 154. Include:

- Topics discussed during these meetings
- How your school ensures families receive necessary translation/interpretation supports to meaningfully engage in the meetings
- How your school schedules these meetings to facilitate attendance, and how your school maintains evidence of these meetings as required per the NYC DOE Policy and Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs.

a. ELL Program Orientation to inform parents/guardians of newly identified ELLs of ELL program options, including the program goals and requirements for all three ML/ELL program models: Dual Language Bilingual Education, Transitional Bilingual Education and English as a New Language regardless of whether the school currently has either type of bilingual program and provide a high-quality orientation section on the Next Generation Learning Standards, assessments, and school expectations for English Language Learners.

Our school ensures that every parent or guardian of a newly identified English Language Learner (ELL) receives a thorough orientation to all available ELL program options, regardless of which models are currently offered at our school. Upon identification, families are contacted promptly in their home language, and invited to attend an orientation session at a time that works for them. During these sessions, we clearly explain the goals, instructional models, and requirements of Dual Language Bilingual Education, Transitional Bilingual Education, and English as a New Language. We also provide an overview of the Next Generation Learning Standards, the key assessments ELLs will take (such as the NYSESLAT and state tests), and what is expected of ELL students in our school. All orientation materials are accessible in families' home languages, and interpreters are provided to ensure full understanding. We encourage open dialogue, answer questions, and offer ongoing support after the initial orientation through our ELL coordinator and parent coordinator. By making information clear and accessible, we empower families to make informed decisions and to partner with us in supporting their children's academic and language development.

Our school schedules parent orientation sessions with flexibility and accessibility in mind to maximize family attendance. Upon identifying a new ELL, we reach out to parents or guardians directly—by phone, email, and written notice in their home language—to coordinate a time that best fits their schedule. We offer multiple orientation sessions at different times of day, including evenings and weekends, to accommodate families who may have work or other commitments during regular school hours. Additionally, we provide options for both in-person and virtual participation, allowing families to join from home if needed. Interpreters are available at all sessions, and transportation or childcare support is offered when necessary. By providing these varied options and supports, we aim to remove barriers and ensure every family has the opportunity to attend and fully engage in the orientation process.

b. Annual Individual Meeting to discuss goals of the program, language development progress, language proficiency assessment results, and language development needs in all content areas. Note: this meeting is separate from and does not include the mandated ELL program orientation meeting and DOE-scheduled parent-teacher conferences.

During the annual individual meeting, teachers—meets one-on-one with each ELL student's family. The meeting begins with a review of the program goals, ensuring parents understand the purpose and expected outcomes of their child's ELL program. We then discuss the student's current English language development progress, sharing specific examples from classroom work and observations. The results of English language proficiency assessments, such as the NYSESLAT, are explained in detail, including what each proficiency level means and how it informs instruction. We also review the student's language development needs in all content areas—ELA, math, science, and social studies—highlighting both areas of growth and ongoing challenges. Families are encouraged to ask questions and collaborate in setting goals and identifying supports for the upcoming year.

To facilitate maximum family participation, we proactively reach out to parents in their home language to schedule meetings at times that are convenient for them, offering morning, afternoon, evening, and weekend slots. We provide the option to meet in person or virtually, ensuring families who cannot physically attend are still able to participate. Interpreters are available to ensure clear communication, and, where needed, we offer supports such as childcare or transportation. Our goal is to eliminate barriers and make it as easy as possible for every family to attend and engage in these important discussions.

After each meeting, staff complete a documentation form that records the date, time, attendees, topics discussed, and any agreed-upon next steps or goals. Families sign an attendance sheet or digital confirmation to verify participation. All records—including meeting notes, signed forms, and any handouts provided—are securely stored in the student's file, either digitally or in a locked cabinet. This documentation not only serves as evidence of compliance but also helps us track each student's progress and follow up on action items from year to year.

Family Engagement

2. Beyond the mandated meetings and orientations, describe how your school:

a. Ensures families receive all school communications and documents in the language they best understand. How are families able to respond or initiate communications in languages other than English?

Our school is committed to ensuring that all families receive communications and documents in the language they best understand. At enrollment, we ask families to indicate their preferred language for both oral and written communications. This information is recorded in and regularly updated if families' preferences change. All school-wide communications—including newsletters, notices, report cards, and forms—are automatically translated into families' preferred languages using both district translation services and trusted bilingual staff. When sending home important documents, we double-check the preferred language against our records to prevent errors. Families are encouraged to respond or initiate communication in their home language, whether via email, written notes, phone calls, or in-person visits. We have bilingual staff and access to interpretation services who can facilitate two-way communication, ensuring that language barriers never prevent meaningful engagement. For languages not spoken by staff, we use the DOE's translation and interpretation hotline or partner with local community organizations. To track and maintain accurate records of language preferences, we conduct an annual review with families, confirm preferences during major meetings, and update records whenever we notice a mismatch or receive a request for a change. This system ensures that all families can fully participate in their children's education and feel welcome and supported in our school community.

b. Develops activities that foster empowerment for families of MLs/ELLs. Include how your school determines the needs of your community.

Our school takes a proactive and collaborative approach to determining the needs of our multilingual learner (ML) and English Language Learner (ELL) community. We start by regularly surveying families—in their home languages—about their interests, challenges, and the types of supports they feel would help their children succeed. These surveys ask about academic concerns, technology access, after-school needs, language support, and family engagement preferences. In addition to surveys, we hold parent workshops and informal Coffee with the principal sessions where families can openly share their experiences and suggestions. We also gather feedback during parent-teacher conferences, individual meetings, and community events. Our parent coordinator maintains ongoing communication with families and relay emerging needs or recurring themes to school leadership. We review school data on student achievement, attendance, and participation rates to identify patterns or gaps, and we consult with community organizations that serve our families to understand broader local needs. By combining direct input from families with data analysis and community partnerships, we ensure our activities and programs are responsive, relevant, and empowering for all MLs/ELLs and their families..

c. Ensures families of MLs/ELLs are aware of family leadership opportunities (such as Parent Association (PA), School Leadership Team (SLT), Community Education Council (CEC), etc.)

Besides advertising these family leadership opportunities in English/Chinese/Spanish, we do not limit parents from taking part if they do not speak English.

We have had parents on the PTA Executive Board and PTA volunteers who do not speak English and still take an active role in the school community for their children. Our PTA executive board members make use of translation apps to communicate with PTA parent volunteers who are not fluent in English.

Our PTA also translates their meeting flyers and other documents into English and our school's other main languages, Chinese/Spanish. They arrange live translators during the meeting itself as well. Our PTA continues to use different group chats focused on different languages to share information with the parent community.

3. What culturally and linguistically responsive partnerships do you currently have that support the needs of your school community?

Our school partners with CASA (Cultivating Appreciation for Student Achievement) and the Queens Botanical Garden to provide culturally and linguistically responsive support for our community. Through CASA, we offer programs that celebrate student achievement and connect families with resources tailored to their linguistic backgrounds.

Our collaboration with the Queens Botanical Garden brings hands-on gardening programs. These programs are designed to be accessible for multilingual learners, incorporating visuals, bilingual instruction, and opportunities for families to share gardening traditions from their own cultures. This partnership not only supports language development and science learning, but also fosters a sense of belonging and pride by valuing the diverse knowledge and experiences to the school community.

Part VII: Additional Information

Additional Information

Include any additional information that is relevant to your LAP and would further explain and highlight how your school supports MLs/ELLs. This form does not allow graphics and charts to be pasted.

All documents present a clear description of supports therefore, no other information is necessary.

Part VIII: ELL Identification Attestation and Principal Certification

Identification Plan

For additional information, refer to ELL Identification Attestation Professional Learning Module.

1. What are the titles of the members of your ELL identification team? Note: Members of the ELL identification team must be pedagogues.

Beth Davis- ENL Teacher
Xinyu Wang- ENL Teacher
Christina Banome- ENL Teacher
Reemy Lee-Gwon- ENL Teacher
Lina Chiang- Bilingual Teacher
Cindy Chen- ENL Teacher
John Barone- Assistant principal
Francine Marsaggi- Principal
Tina Kual- Assistant Principal

2. Describe the structures and process in place for identification of ELLs year-round as required by the NYC DOE Policy & Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs, including your school's identification plan for any incoming students with an Individualized Education Plan (IEP). Include:

- How your school proactively plans for the ELL identification process so that it does not interrupt the provision of mandated ENL and/or bilingual instruction to current, former and potential ELLs,
- Who is responsible for each step of the ELL identification process, and
- School's plan for ensuring ELLs and former ELLs will continue to receive mandated instruction.

The identification of English Language Learners (ELLs) in NYC public schools is an ongoing, year-round process, guided by the NYC DOE Policy & Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs. Our school follows these protocols closely to ensure that all Multilingual Learners (MLs) and ELLs are identified promptly and receive the instructional support they are entitled to. Proactive Planning for ELL Identification. We plan proactively to ensure the ELL identification process runs smoothly and does not disrupt mandated ENL (English as a New Language) or bilingual services for current, former, or potential ELLs.

Year-Round Readiness: Our ELL identification team is trained ahead of each school year and stays on-call to process new enrollments at any time, including mid-year entrants and transfer students.

Clear Scheduling: We ensure that the ELL screening and identification process occurs within the DOE's required 10-day window after a student enrolls. Our team is notified immediately when new students register, so there's no delay.

Service Continuity: While the identification process is underway, any student who may qualify for ELL services is given access to language support and resources, so there's no gap in mandated ENL or bilingual instruction for any student—current, former, or new.

Responsible Staff for Each Step
The ELL identification process is a team effort, with specific roles assigned:

Registrar/Parent Coordinator: Responsible for collecting Home Language Identification Survey (HLIS) forms from all new students and families as part of the registration packet.

ENL/ML Coordinator (or Assistant Principal): Reviews HLIS responses and determines which students need further assessment. Coordinates the NYSITELL (New York State Identification Test for English Language Learners) for eligible students.

ENL/Bilingual Teachers: Administer the NYSITELL assessment, score it, and report results to the ENL/ML Coordinator.

IEP Team (for students with IEPs): Collaborates to ensure any student with an IEP is screened appropriately for ELL status. If a new student with an IEP enrolls, the ENL/ML Coordinator and IEP team review the IEP, communicate with the previous school (if needed), and ensure the student's language needs are met alongside their special education services.

Data Manager/Guidance Counselor: Updates ATS (Automate The Schools) and SESIS (Special Education Student Information System) records to ensure accurate classification and service mandates are reflected.

School's Plan to Ensure Mandated Instruction for ELLs and Former ELLs
To make sure all ELLs and former ELLs continue to receive mandated instruction:

Timely Placement: As soon as a student is identified as an ELL, they are scheduled for ENL or bilingual instruction per their proficiency level and grade, according to NYS guidelines.

Ongoing Monitoring: Former ELLs in the four-year monitoring period continue to receive support and are tracked by ENL staff, with interventions provided if needed.

Collaboration: ENL/bilingual teachers, classroom teachers, and the IEP team meet regularly to review student progress and ensure services are being delivered as mandated.

Family Communication: We keep families informed about their child's ELL status and services, offer translation and interpretation, and provide opportunities for parent input.

Documentation: All identification, placement, and service decisions are documented and kept up-to-date in student records and reported as required to the DOE.

In summary, our school maintains a robust, year-round ELL identification system that ensures no student falls through the cracks. We assign clear responsibility for each step, coordinate closely with special education for students with IEPs, and guarantee that all ELLs and former ELLs receive the instruction and supports they are entitled to—without delay or interruption.

Principal Certification

In accordance with New York State's Commissioner's Regulations Part 154 as outlined and implemented in the NYC DOE Policy and Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs, I, attest that the following ELL identification procedures and activities are adhered to, and staff are trained on the items listed below.

- The ELL Identification Process is completed for each student within 10 school days of enrollment (20 school days for students entering with IEPs).
- Enrollment status of each newly admitted student is determined:
  a. If a student has been in New York State public schools within the past 2 years, our school contacts the previous school to obtain ELL status, relevant assessment scores, and English language proficiency level.
  b. If a student has been outside of New York State public schools for more than 2 years, our school administers the ELL Identification Process as part of reentry.

- The home language of the student is determined by a trained and licensed pedagogue.
  a. The parent completes the Home Language Identification Survey in the parent's preferred language; translation services are provided by a bilingual staff member, the DOE's over-the-phone translation services, or an alternative, high quality translation service.

- An interview with parents and students in English and the home language is conducted. This includes reviewing documents, prior assessments, and academic experience. An assessment of the student's abilities and/or work samples determines the student's literacy and math level in his/her home language.
- Eligibility for the NYSITELL is determined.
  a. If the newly enrolled student is entering with an IEP, the school's Language Proficiency Team (LPT) recommends eligibility to the principal, who obtains final approval from the superintendent.

- Students are administered the NYSITELL, if eligible.
- Notification letters are sent to the parent/guardian in their preferred language.
  a. Parent is notified of their child's ELL status and results of the NYSITELL.

- If the student is identified as an ELL and the student's home language is Spanish, the student is administered the Spanish Language Assessment Battery (LAB).
- Student with Interrupted/Inconsistent Formal Education (SIFE) status is determined using New York State's resources.
- If a student is a newly identified ELL, the parent is invited to the parent orientation meeting.
  a. The parent orientation meeting provides parents/guardians with an explanation of each ELL program model offered in NYC; the parent video describing the three programs is presented (in parent's preferred language); parents/guardians are encouraged to ask questions so that they are informed about all ELL programs; translation and interpretation services are provided throughout the meeting.

- ELL is placed in the ELL program that the parent selected.
  a. If the bilingual program that the parent selected is not available, the parent is offered a transfer to a school with that bilingual program in accordance with NYC DOE transfer policies.
  b. If the ELL remains in the school, the ELL is placed in English as a New Language and our school keeps track of parent selection so that when minimum thresholds are met, we can open the ELL program of choice.

- Parents are notified that they have 45 days to appeal the ELL status of their child (ELL Re-identification Process).
- If the ELL Re-identification Process is implemented for any student, the principal reviews the decision of any student whose ELL status was changed because of the ELL Re-identification Process within 6 to 12 months.
- Copies of documentation regarding ELL identification, including letters and parent notifications are kept in the students' cumulative files.

LTI Overview and Part A: Designation of a LAC

Chancellor's Regulation A-663 establishes procedures for ensuring that Limited-English-Proficient (LEP) parents of students enrolled in the New York City public schools are provide with a meaningful opportunity to participate in and have access to programs and services critical to their child's education. To this end, schools must review and complete the annual LTI Plan to address its language assistance needs consistent with the requirements of this regulation.

The LTI Plan requires information on the following:

- Name of person designated as the Language Access Coordinator (LAC).
- Identification and assessment of LEP parent population.
- Identification of Critical Communications and standing, in-person meetings throughout the school year that require language assistance services and how the school plans to respond to these needs.
- Plan to ensure staff awareness of language access requirements and available resources.
- Provision of notice to parents on the available language assistance services.

Methods for the school to solicit and implement feedback on its provision of language assistance services.

Designation of a LAC
Name of person designated and trained as the LAC.
At the start of each school year, each principal is required to designate at least one staff member to serve as the Language Access Coordinator (LAC), responsible for overseeing language assistance services within the school.

We have pre-populated the following information based on our records. Please confirm that the designated staff member(s) are your school's Galaxy-designated LAC(s) and provide the date(s) they attended the OLA Language Access Coordinator Training. Note that this training is in addition to the mandatory asynchronous NYCPS Language Access Training for School-based Staff on the WeLearnNYC learning platform. If any information is missing, please provide the requested details.

As a reminder, LACs are internal staff designations and are not meant to serve as the primary point of contact for families regarding language access-related matters. The Parent Coordinator, or another designated staff member, should remain the main contact for families regarding all issues, including language access.

Part C: Parent Communications and Engagement

Parent Communication and Engagement

Identification of written critical communications and in-person meetings throughout the school year that require language assistance services and how the school plans to respond to these needs.

1. List the documents your school typically distributes each year that require translation, along with your plan for translating these documents.

Document Type (e.g. parent flyers, IEPs, etc.)	How do you plan to implement the translation process? Please include procedures and resources to ensure the timely delivery of translated documents to parents.
Ingress/Dismissal	We plan to use the Language Interpretation Services. We submit the documents 3 weeks before distribution. One of our secretaries sends the letter to L&I. When it is returned the secretary prints a copy and gives it to a school aide to make class sets in the preferred language.
School Residencies	We plan to use the Language Interpretation Services. We submit the documents 3 weeks before distribution. One of our secretaries sends the letter to L&I. When it is returned the secretary prints a copy and gives it to a school aide to make class sets in the preferred language.
Title I Meeting	We plan on having our school aides translate all verbal communication by the presenters.
NYS Testing Information	We plan to use the Language Interpretation Services. We submit the documents 3 weeks before distribution. One of our secretaries sends the letter to L&I. When it is returned the secretary prints a copy and gives it to a school aide to make class sets in the preferred language.
IEPs	We plan to use the Language Interpretation Services. We submit the documents explaining to the parent that it will take a minimum of 3 weeks to receive it.

2. List the meetings, both in-person and virtual, that your school typically holds with parents throughout the school year, along with your plans for providing interpretation services at those meetings.

Meeting Type (e.g. parent workshops, PTCs)	How do you plan to offer interpretation services? Please outline the procedures and resources in place to ensure timely access to interpretation for parents.
Parent Teacher Conference	We plan to hire interpreters from L&I and use our out of classroom staff and school aides to help with translation. Our strategy to ensure that communication takes place in the parent's language is by informing the teachers to call the main office to request a translator in the preferred language of the parent.
Meet the Teacher Night	We plan to hire interpreters from L&I and use our out of classroom staff and school aides to help with translation. Our strategy to ensure that communication takes place in the parent's language is by informing the teachers to call the main office and request a translator in the preferred language of the parent.
Title I Meeting	We plan on having our school aides translate all verbal communication by the presenters
PTA Meetings	We plan to use the Language Interpretation Services. We submit the documents 3 weeks before distribution. Our Parent Coordinator sends the letter to L&I. When it is returned the secretary prints a copy and gives it to a school aide to make class

3. Describe the resources and processes your school will use to communicate with parents who speak a language other than English during an emergency (e.g., lockdown, fire, student attendance, nurse/hospital visit, etc.), or when a parent needs to contact the school in an emergency, ensuring communication is in their preferred language.

During emergencies we write a letter explaining the situation as it is happening using our Remind APP and Gama. We translate the letter using staff members who speak the preferred languages. If the school needs to evacuate, all teachers bring a ROCL to call the parents using the T&I unit.
(B) a student-specific event (i.e. student attendance, nurse/hospital visit, etc..).
During emergencies we write a letter home explaining the situation. We translate the letter using staff members who speak the preferred languages. If the school needs to evacuate, all teachers bring a ROCL to call the parents using the T&I unit.

(C) If a parent has an emergency and needs to contact the school.
If a parent has an emergency and has to contact the school they can do it in the following ways: Calling the school with support of one of our staff who will translate, the Remind App, emailing their child's teacher, school administrator, or parent coordinator. The message will be translated in the families preferred language.

Part D: Staff Awareness

Staff Awareness

Plan to ensure staff awareness of language access requirements and available resources.

1. Describe how your school will ensure that all staff members complete the required asynchronous NYCPS Language Access Training for School-based Staff on the WeLearnNYC learning platform, and are familiar with the Best Practices for When to Provide Translation of Critical Written Communications to Parents and Best Practices for When to Provide Interpretation for Critical Oral Communications with Parents. Additionally, explain how your Galaxy-designated LAC will disseminate future language access resources and updates to all staff members.

To ensure that every staff member completes the required asynchronous NYCPS Language Access Training for School-based Staff on the WeLearnNYC platform, our school will use a multi-step process. First, our Galaxy-designated Language Access Coordinator (LAC) will provide all staff with clear instructions on how to access and complete the training during our first staff meeting of the year, and follow up with an email that includes direct links and deadlines. The LAC will track staff completion using WeLearnNYC's reporting tools and send personalized reminders to anyone who hasn't finished the training by the deadline.

Beyond just checking the box, we want staff to actually understand how and when to provide translation and interpretation for families. So, after training, the LAC will host a short Q&A session at a staff meeting to review the "Best Practices for When to Provide Translation of Critical Written Communications to Parents" and "Best Practices for When to Provide Interpretation for Critical Oral Communications with Parents." We'll use real-life scenarios to make sure everyone feels confident about when to use these resources, and the LAC will keep a quick-reference guide posted in our shared Google Drive and on the staff bulletin board.

Whenever new language access resources or updates come out, our Galaxy-designated LAC will review them and highlight key changes during weekly staff bulletins and monthly meetings. The LAC will also send summary emails with links to new materials and update our Google Drive folder, so staff always have access to the latest information. If there are urgent updates—like a new translation requirement or resource—the LAC will send a direct email and offer brief office hours for questions.

This system ensures every staff member is trained, up-to-date, and confident in supporting families with limited English proficiency.

Part E: Parental Notification

Parental Notification

Provision of notice to parents on the available language assistance services.

1. Describe how your school will inform parents about available language assistance services in their preferred language. Include any of the following:

- Translated signage
- Brochures, flyers, or letters shared with parents
- Parent engagement events where language assistance services are highlighted (e.g., PTA meetings, international parents' night, etc.)
- Messaging applications

- Language Access for NYC Public Schools Families brochure

Our school is committed to making sure every family has access to important information in their preferred language. We use a combination of methods to let parents know about our language assistance services:

Translated Signage: Throughout the school, we post clear signs in the most commonly spoken languages in our community. These signs explain that free language assistance is available and guide parents on how to request help.

Brochures, Flyers, and Letters: Whenever we send out letters home, or distribute brochures and flyers—whether about school events, academics, or policies—we include translated versions in the major languages spoken by our families. In particular, we share the "Language Access for NYC Public Schools Families" brochure, which explains the full range of language support available.

Parent Engagement Events: During PTA meetings, open houses, international parents' nights, and similar events, we highlight our language assistance services. We make sure interpreters are present and that families know how to access translation and interpretation at future events or during meetings with staff.

Messaging Applications: We use messaging apps like Remind, Gama, and Class Dojo to support multilingual communication, so parents receive important updates in their preferred language. We also encourage families to let us know their language preferences so we can tailor communications accordingly.

By using these strategies, we aim to build trust and ensure every parent feels welcome and fully informed, regardless of the language they speak at home.

Part F: Monitoring

Monitoring

Methods for soliciting and implementing feedback on language assistance services.

1. In addition to the feedback received from parents via OLA's Translation & Interpretation Feedback Survey, describe the methods your school will use to gather feedback from parents regarding the language assistance services they receive in their preferred language.

In addition to utilizing OLA's Translation & Interpretation Feedback Survey, our school will employ several additional methods to gather meaningful feedback from parents regarding language assistance services in their preferred language:

Parent-Teacher Conferences: We will invite parents to share their experiences with language services during conferences, ensuring interpreters are present so families can express themselves comfortably in their preferred language.

Focus Groups: Small-group discussions will be organized periodically, facilitated in families' home languages. These sessions will allow for more in-depth feedback and open dialogue about what's working and what could be improved.

Suggestion Boxes: Multilingual suggestion boxes (physical and digital) will be available year-round, allowing parents to submit feedback anonymously in their preferred language.

Direct Outreach: Bilingual staff or family liaisons will conduct routine phone calls or home visits to connect with families and gather their input on language support services.

Family Engagement Events: At school events, we will set up dedicated feedback stations with translated materials and interpreters on hand to assist parents in providing input.

All collected feedback will be reviewed regularly to identify trends and ensure our language assistance services are responsive to the needs of our multilingual families.

2. How has your school worked to improve its language assistance services? Share any feedback results and outline your plans for further improvements in the upcoming school year.

Feedback from families has been encouraging. In our recent survey, a significant number of parents shared that they appreciated being able to communicate directly with teachers through interpreters, making them feel more included in their children's education. Teachers also reported feeling more confident reaching out to non-English-speaking families, leading to increased family engagement.

Looking ahead to next year, we plan to build on this momentum. Our Language Access Coordinator (LAC) will provide dedicated professional development sessions for teachers, focusing on best practices for culturally responsive communication and deeper use of language assistance tools. By equipping our staff with these additional skills, we aim to further close communication gaps and ensure every family feels welcome and supported in our school community.

Title III Outline

Title III Supplemental Program for ELLs for SY 2025-26

REQUIREMENTS

Title III supplemental services for English Language Learners (ELLs) must include the following three components:

- Direct instruction activities must be used to support language development, English and home language instruction, high academic achievement in math, and/or high academic achievement in other core academic areas. The Title III supplemental instructional services must be based on student need. These supplemental services should complement core bilingual and ENL services required under CR Part 154. Direct supplemental services should be provided for before school, after school, and Saturday programs. Teachers providing the services must be bilingual education and/or English for Speakers of Other Languages (ESOL) certified teachers.
- High quality professional development that is "of sufficient intensity and duration to have a positive and lasting impact on the teachers' performance in classrooms." Professional development activities should be well-planned, ongoing events rather than one-day or short-term workshops and conferences.
- Parent engagement and supports must ensure that there are appropriate translation and interpretation services to meet community needs. These are in addition to mandated activities, such as parent orientation during ELL identification process or annual ELL parent meetings.

Note: The Title III ELL program planning ratio is as follows: 60% to direct instruction, 10% to professional development (if funded using Title III ELL funds), 10% to parent engagement (if funded using Title III ELL funds), and 20% to OTPS (if funded using Title III ELL funds).

For more information on Title III requirements, please see the School Allocation Memo or contact your ML/ELL Director or ELL Compliance and Performance Specialist. Any updates or revisions to this plan must be made through the iPlan portal.

The rational for the Hello and Building Reading Success program is to meet our learning priority of supporting our MLLs through foundational skills. We would to like to provide support throughout the year to Newcomers in grades K-5 through an after school program. Currently, 73% of our ELLS are in years 0-3. We will use the Building Reading Success from Sadlier Inc for grades K-2. In grades 3-5, we will use the Hello program from Benchmark publication. The Hello program will focus on academic language and metacognitive and socio-affective skills and strategies. The Newcomer program combines English language development and social emotional learning (SEL) to accelerate language learning. There will be 10 groups with 13 students in each group receiving five weeks of instruction.

Our rational for the NYSESLAT test prep program is for the students to become familiar with the testing format and to practice all four language modalities. We would like to provide a NYSESLAT test prep program on Saturdays for grades K and 1 to focus on all four language modalities. We will use the book, Getting Ready for the NYSESLAT, by the Measuring Up publication company. The students will be grouped into two groups of ten students. One teacher will facilitate the Speaking/Listening lessons. Once the 60 minute lessons are complete, the students will rotate to the next teacher who will teach the Reading/Writing components.

The programs will be supervised by the principal and assistant principal Barone. This program will be funded through Title III.

Rationale for Title III ELL Funded Programs

Describe the rationale for each Title III ELL funded program. For each program, include:

- Qualitative and quantitative data analysis that support the need for program, and
- Data sources used to justify the need for the program

Our current NYSESLAT and NYSITELL scores indicate that 22% of our MLLs are Newcomers in grades K-2. Our 2025 Acadience data reveled that 52% of our ELLs are on or above grade level. .Our Newcomer subgroup in grades K-2 will benefit from a customized program that will support their language growth specifically in the speaking modality, which will develop their writing skills and reach a higher level of English proficiency on the NYSESLAT.

In grades 3-5, ELLs at the EN/EM levels are 51% . Our 2025 IReady data indicated that 18% of our ELLs in grades 3-5 made progress. Our instructional priority is building on foundational skills for MLLs who are below grade level. Our Newcomer subgroup in grades 3-5 will benefit from a customized program that will help the students complete all classroom assignments and increase their language development skills.

Part C: Professional Development

Professional Development Summary

Provide a summary of your school's plan for professional development under your Title III ELL program. Please make sure to describe:

- Professional development to be provided,
- Activities that teachers will engage with by topic, and
- Whether the professional development provided will be funded by Title III ELL funds. Please note: If PD will be funded by Title III ELL funds, vendor cost is calculated as part of OTPS and must not exceed 20% of the total allocation; teacher per-session is calculated as part of PD and must not exceed 10% of the total allocation.

Our school's Title III ELL professional development plan is designed to provide ongoing, targeted professional learning for all teachers working with English Language Learners (ELLs), including ELL specialists and general education staff. This year, the core focus is on the effective implementation of the Amplify math program for multilingual learners. Professional Development Provided: Teachers will engage in a series of workshops, coaching sessions, and collaborative planning meetings throughout the year. The primary emphasis is on differentiating math instruction using Amplify, integrating language supports, building academic vocabulary, and leveraging visual aids to make math more accessible to ELL students. In addition, sessions will address language acquisition, culturally responsive teaching, interpreting assessment data, and setting language/content goals. Activities by Topic: Amplify math Implementation: Training on adapting Amplify lessons for ELLs, scaffolding, and using visual supports. Language Acquisition & Culturally Responsive Teaching: Understanding stages of language development, inclusive classroom practices, and honoring students' cultural backgrounds. Assessment & Data Use: Interpreting student assessment data, using formative and summative tools, and setting actionable goals. Collaborative Planning: Co-teaching models and team lesson planning to integrate language and content objectives. Family and Community Engagement: Strategies for engaging families and building partnerships to support ELL achievement outside the classroom. Teachers will participate in model lesson observations, data analysis, and immediate application of learned strategies. New staff will receive additional orientation to both Amplify and ELL best practices. Substitute coverage will be provided for all teachers attending professional learning. Funding: All outlined professional development activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds. Vendor costs associated with these activities are included in OTPS and will not exceed 20% of the total Title III allocation; teacher per-session costs for PD will not exceed 10% of the allocation. Training Dates :Professional development will occur on October 20, December 15, 2025, January 5, and May 18, 2026, from 8:15 am to 2:35 pm. This approach ensures that all teachers are equipped with the skills and support needed to drive both language acquisition and academic achievement for ELL students across content areas.

Rationale for Professional Development

Describe the rationale for the professional development to be provided. For each activity, include:

- Qualitative and quantitative data analysis (e.g., patterns and trends identified) that support the need for the professional development, and
- Data sources (e.g., school survey teacher responses, in-house teacher surveys, teacher observation data) used to justify the professional development.

The rationale for professional development is to support the Dual language teachers by sharing best practices. Also, all material needs to be translated therefore an opportunity to share translated Ampliy math resources will benefit the program. The students in the program will receive explicit instruction through teacher professional development. Our 2025 IReady math EOY data reveled that in our Mandarin dual language program, 14% scored below grade level in grades K-2. Our I Ready math data reveled that 15% of the dual language students in grades 3-5 scored below grade level.

Teachers to Receive Professional Development

Include information on the teachers to receive professional development. Please specify how all teachers working in the Title III ELL program will receive ongoing professional development related to the Title III ELL program.

All teachers working in the Title III ELL program will participate in ongoing professional development to support both language acquisition and academic achievement for English Language Learners. This year, a key focus of professional development is the implementation of Amplify, our new math program.

Teachers including ELL specialists and general education staff will receive targeted training on how to use Amplify effectively with ELL students. Professional development sessions will address instructional strategies for making math content accessible to multilingual learners, including scaffolding techniques, use of visual supports, and ways to build academic vocabulary within the math curriculum.

Ongoing support will include workshops, coaching from ELL specialists, and collaborative planning time to adapt Amplify lessons for ELLs. Teachers will also have opportunities to observe model lessons, analyze student data, and adjust instruction based on the needs of their ELL students.

All staff working in the Title III program are required to participate in these sessions throughout the year. New teachers will receive additional orientation to both Amplify and ELL best practices. This approach ensures that every teacher is equipped to deliver high-quality math instruction while simultaneously supporting language development for ELL students.

Schedule and Duration

For each Title III ELL professional development activity, include:

- Start and end dates/months,

- Total number of sessions,
- Days of sessions, and

Topics to be covered

For each Title III ELL professional development activity, include topics to be covered.

Each Title III ELL professional development activity will cover a range of topics designed to equip teachers with the skills and strategies needed to support English Language Learners effectively. Teachers will receive training on the implementation of the Amplify math program, with a focus on differentiating math instruction, integrating language supports, building academic vocabulary, and using visual aids to make math content more accessible for ELL students. In addition, professional development will address key areas such as language acquisition and culturally responsive teaching, helping educators understand the stages of language development and how to create inclusive classrooms that honor students' cultural backgrounds. Teachers will also learn to interpret assessment data, use both formative and summative assessments to guide instruction, and set appropriate language and content goals for ELL students. Collaborative planning and co-teaching models will be another focus, supporting effective teamwork between ELL specialists and general education teachers as they plan lessons that integrate both language and content objectives. Finally, the training will offer strategies for engaging families and building community partnerships to support ELL achievement beyond the classroom. These professional development activities will be ongoing throughout the year and will include workshops, coaching, and collaborative planning sessions to ensure teachers can immediately apply what they learn to their daily practices. Part D: Family Engagement Activities

Family Engagement Summary

Provide a summary of your school's family engagement activities under your Title III ELL program. Describe the activities that families of ELLs will engage with by topic. Please make sure to include whether the activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds.
Please note: If family engagement activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds, vendor cost is calculated as part of OTPS and must not exceed 20% of the total allocation; teacher per-session is calculated as part of family engagement and must not exceed 10% of the total allocation.

Our school's Title III ELL family engagement activities for the 2024-2025 school year are designed to address needs identified through recent student data. The 2025 district SEL survey for grades 3-5 revealed that 67% of students struggle with self-management, and 2024-2025 Occurrence Reports show that 74% of incidents involve disruptive or aggressive behavior. In response, our family engagement initiative will focus on equipping families with practical strategies to support their children's emotional regulation and self-management at home.
