Section 1: Overview of Comprehensive Education Planning

Overview of Comprehensive Education Planning

Comprehensive Education Planning (CEP) is a structured, data-driven process that guides schools in assessing their needs, identifying areas for growth, setting strategic goals and implementing targeted actions to improve student outcomes. Collaboratively developed by the School Leadership Team (SLT) in accordance with the requirements of Chancellor's Regulation A-655, the CEP meets New York State Education Department (NYSED) requirements under the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA) and aligns with NYC Public Schools' (NYCPS) system-wide priorities. By engaging all stakeholders—school leaders, teachers, families, students and community members—schools can create a data-informed, equity-focused roadmap for student success and continuous improvement.

Schools should focus their CEP on the five system-wide priorities below, connecting their planning to the data discussions and conversations with stakeholders held as part of the school's needs assessment:

- Priority 1: All students learn to read well
- Priority 2: All students are physically and emotionally safe
- Priority 3: All students have a high-quality academic experience
- Priority 4: All students graduate college and career ready and have a strong plan and pathway to economic security
- Priority 5: All districts and schools are more inclusive and responsive for parents and families, including having more families choose NYC Public Schools

The Education Planning Process

The CEP follows an equity-driven, continuous improvement cycle, rooted in the system-wide priorities. This begins with a comprehensive needs assessment of the school's most current data to identify priority needs and root causes. Next, the SLT establishes specific, measurable, attainable, relevant, and timely—SMART goal(s) aligned to each priority and determines targets to measure progress toward meeting the annual goals.

The SLT and instructional leaders define key evidence-based key strategies, professional learning activities and parent, family and community empowerment efforts. They monitor the implementation of those strategies and activities and track progress through measurable targets. Then, the SLT aligns the school-based budget with human and instructional resources to support action plans.

As schools set goals, develop key strategies, and plan action steps, they provide opportunities for all children to meet NYSED's proficient and advanced levels of student academic achievement. These include evidence based instructional strategies that address the educational needs of historically underserved populations and tackle structural inequities. Schools indicate how the plan addresses the needs of Multilingual/English Language Learners (ML/ELL) through development of the school's Language Allocation Policy (LAP) & Title III Application (if applicable) and the Language Translation and Interpretation (LTI) Plan, that are required as part of the CEP. Schools also address the needs of Students with Disabilities (SWD) through the High Quality Inclusive & Accessible Learning for Students with Disabilities section of the plan. SLTs also develop a plan to improve attendance and reduce chronic absenteeism.

Guidance on Conducting a Comprehensive Needs Assessment

Directions: Conduct a comprehensive needs assessment for each Priority. The information below provides guidance for reviewing and analyzing student and school performance trends to uncover root causes for low student achievement.

1. Review Multiple Data Sources: Use the most current and available information including, but not limited to, the following sources of formative and summative data, as applicable:

- Qualitative and quantitative data, including enrollment and class size trends
- 2024-25 ESSA Accountability Data
- Instructional Leadership Framework (ILF), Supportive Environment Framework (SEF) Inventories, and NYC School Survey results
- Quality Review Reports, NYSED and NYCPS CSI or A/TSI Support Visits, Receivership Quarterly Reports, and Diagnostic Tool for School and District Effectiveness Framework (DTSDE)
- NYC School Quality Guide, Insight, New Visions, NWEA MAP and/or other formative assessment data, IEP Review Survey Data, Progress on IEP Goals Data, Program (SESIS-STARS Linkage) Reports, Mandated (Related) Services Reports, and NYCPS Tools for Understanding Your Data for student subgroup information

2. Analyze Data Trend(s) to Identify Areas of Strength and Need: Identify data trends by grade, cohort, and content area(s) to surface gaps and inequities. Compare data sets to identify instructional and school practices that are impacting student performance. Guiding questions to consider:

- What does the data reveal about improving and declining student performance trends within grades, cohorts, and student subgroups?
- What inequities are evident between highest and lowest performing student subgroups? Which subgroup(s) scored at Level 1 based on NYSED ESSA accountability indicators?
- What does the data suggest regarding the effectiveness (or ineffectiveness) of current school programs, practices, and/or strategies/initiatives? What areas may need to be strengthened?
- Are there any differences in student performance between program delivery models for ML/ELL and SWD? (e.g., for special education: special class, ICT, SETSS, related services only; for ML/ELL: Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) vs. Dual Language, etc.)
- How does delivery of instruction factor into data trends? What are the implications for teacher quality and professional learning?
- What inequities in special education referral and school disciplinary practices (e.g. suspensions, removals) are evident between student subgroups with IEPs?

3. Identify Root Cause(s): After analyzing the data, engage in a process for uncovering root causes or contributing factors for low student and school performance. Develop theories or hypotheses to explain why these needs exist and why your school is getting its current outcomes. Root causes could be related to gaps and inequities in areas such as curriculum & instruction, school systems & structures, student support services, school climate & safety, and family & community engagement. Focus on the causes, rather than the symptoms. Use the 5 Whys Method or other methods for identifying root causes. Consider the questions below:

- What theories or hypotheses explain the current student and school outcomes?
- Are there root causes specific to certain subgroups, grades, cohorts, or content area(s)?

Additional resources and supports are available below.

- Use this CEP Needs Assessment Worksheet to help your SLT and stakeholders identify appropriate data sources, data trends, root causes and priority needs.
- For guidance and best practices on engaging stakeholders in a comprehensive needs assessment and root cause analysis, see this deck.
- A current list of all CEP/Title I resources can be found on the iPlan Portal Public Resources Page.

- Indicate the high leverage priority needs determined by your school that, if resolved, will advance equity and result in measurable, positive impact on student outcomes.

Guiding Questions:
1. Data Trends: What did you see as you analyzed data trends? Cite data sources and years, including those available from NYCPS and NYSED.
2. Root Causes: What do you believe are the reasons within the school's control that are leading to these outcomes?
3. Priority Needs: What are the most important needs identified after completing your needs assessment?

| 1. Data Trend(s) (Cite Data Source & Year) | 2. Root Cause(s) | 3. Priority Needs |

Attendance/Chronic Absenteeism

Directions: After conducting a comprehensive needs assessment by analyzing the school data, exploring your school vision/values/aspirations, and listening to students to surface priority needs and identify root causes, develop at least one outcome-focused SMART goal aligned to our systemwide focus on improving attendance and reducing chronic absenteeism.

Systemwide Focus Area for Attendance/Chronic Absenteeism: Develop and implement strengthened practices to improve attendance, combat chronic absenteeism and center equity. Note: For ESSA accountability purposes, NYSED will replace the Chronic Absenteeism indicator with the Attendance indicator, beginning in the 2025-26 school year. Learn more about the new Attendance indicator by reviewing this Fact Sheet.

Attendance/Chronic Absenteeism Action Plan

Directions: Identify the key strategy and progressive action steps your school will take to address the specific priority needs and root causes identified for this goal(s). More than one strategy can be indicated if multiple and/or differentiated needs for this priority have been identified.

- Key strategies should be key levers for success and may represent something that is new to the school.
- Action steps to operationalize key strategies should focus on new activities or initiatives and/or modifications to current initiatives (e.g., expanded to reach a wider audience or refined for greater impact on students).

Note: Routine activities your school does every year should not be included.

Section 6: Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS)

Academic Support

NYCPS Multi-Tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) align with NYSED guidelines for providing Academic Intervention Services (AIS) to students who have not yet met state standards or are considered to be at-risk of not meeting state standards. The Multi-tiered Systems of Support (MTSS) framework, organizes supports into three tiers:

Tier 1 provides schoolwide, high-quality programming for all students, including SWDs;

Tier 2 offers data informed small-group interventions for at-promise students; and

Tier 3 delivers intensive, individualized support for students with persistent needs.

This facilitates the strategic planning and necessary resource alignment to ensure their school community appropriately and adequately serves all students well, in partnership with students and families.

MTSS identifies the academic support services to be provided and ensures that students receive Response to Intervention (RtI) and Positive Behavioral Interventions and Support (PBIS) strategies as needed. See NYSED's memo to view the criteria for determining AIS services. The Supportive Environment Framework (SEF) offers a wide range of evidence-based Tier 2 and Tier 3 interventions and supports for student social-emotional, behavioral, physical and mental wellness, with particular attention to the unique needs of students in Temporary Housing and/or Foster Care, who may face additional challenges related to school stability, trauma and access to educational resources. A culturally responsive-sustaining approach to intervention embeds culturally relevant texts and historical narratives into literacy and social studies interventions, ensuring students receive the support that reflects their identities and lived experiences, increasing engagement and achievement.

Use the charts below and a Multi-Tiered System of Support (MTSS) to match academic, social/emotional, behavioral and instructional resources with student needs to provide targeted support for all learners, especially at-risk students who experience difficulty meeting state standards, including those living in Temporary Housing and/or residing in Foster Care placements. Indicate specialized materials, technology-based tools and/or extra instruction, including Expanded Learning Time that supplement school-wide systems & supports and/or classroom level supports. Ensure that interventions address the unique social-emotional, behavioral and academic challenges faced by culturally and linguistically diverse students, as well as those impacted by housing instability and child welfare system involvement.

Directions: Complete the chart and identify Tier 2 or 3 MTSS Academic supports. Any Tier 2/3 interventions should be in addition to the foundational work being done at Tier 1.

Any Tier 2/3 interventions should be in addition to the foundational work being done at Tier 1.

Family and Community Engagement Around MTSS

Describe how the school's essential components of MTSS are shared with families.

Back-to-School Night, Parent-Teacher Conferences, General Parent Meetings help families understand MTSS tiers, academic expectations, and resources available across intervention levels.

Workshops—such as High School Application Sessions, SHSAT prep classes for 7th?graders, and Chinese Book Fair —connect families with academic support directly tied to the MTSS structure.

Monthly newsletters like "The Dragon" deliver updates on assessments, upcoming interventions, and results from progress-monitoring cycles. April?2024's issue, for instance, included reminders about state tests and Regents schedules—key moments to discuss tiered supports .

The school uses ongoing assessments (state ELA/Math/Science tests, Regents, Chinese proficiency measures) to guide tier placement and intervention decisions.

Results are shared via report cards, DOE surveys, and during conferences—with language supports (e.g. extra Mandarin after school or pull-out sessions) explained in context of MTSS tiers .

Describe how families receive updates on the progress of their child(ren) who receive Tier 2 targeted, or Tier 3 intensive interventions.

Students receiving Tier 2 or Tier 3 supports are progress-monitored regularly—typically every 2–3 weeks for Tier 3, and every 4–6 weeks for Tier 2.

Families receive written updates summarizing:

Targeted skill areas (e.g., reading fluency, math computation, Mandarin writing)

Frequency and duration of interventions

Data trends (progress reports via content areas and Mandarin Studies, charts showing growth)

These may be delivered via: Printed reports sent home, Email or student folders and Parent portals such as Jupiter Grades and/or Google Classroom.  In addition to standard Parent-Teacher Conferences, families of Tier 2/3 students are often invited to: Intervention progress meetings (with classroom teacher, interventionist, and counselor or MTSS coordinator) and Student Support Team (SST) meetings, where next steps are discussed in both Mandarin and English.

Describe how families are involved during decision making regarding the progress of students receiving Tier 3 intensive intervention.

Families are asked to share insights about:

Their child's learning history, behavior at home, or outside supports

Cultural or linguistic considerations (especially in dual-language learning)

Any emotional or medical concerns that may impact learning

Families are actively involved in:

Reviewing progress-monitoring data

Setting measurable goals (e.g., reading fluency, comprehension, Mandarin writing)

Choosing appropriate interventions (if options exist)

They may receive:

A copy of the intervention plan

A home-support guide aligned with school strategies

Tier 3 plans are revisited every 6–8 weeks

Families are part of these review meetings, where the team discusses:

Whether the student is making adequate progress

If the intervention needs to be modified

Whether to continue Tier 3, return to Tier 2, or refer for special education evaluation (if warranted)

Students in Temporary Housing (STH) Support

As included in your school's Office of School and Youth Development Consolidated Plan-STH Section and in accordance with the federal McKinney-Vento Homeless Assistance Act and Chancellor's Regulation A-780, schools must identify, serve, and report on students living in temporary housing (STH). All Title I and non-Title I schools receive a Title I allocation for STH students. The Students in Temporary Housing (STH) website provides guidance on STH pupils and how these funds can be used to meet their needs, as well as restrictions. For more information on acceptable uses of the mandated Title I, Part A set-aside to support your STH population, please refer to the Title I STH Funds Toolkit.

Identify the number of Students in Temporary Housing who are currently attending your school and provide a breakdown of their temporary housing status. Since the number of STH children can change regularly, schools must carefully track this number to determine whether there has been an increase in need.

Number of students in temporary housing who are:

- Doubled up (with friends or relatives because they cannot find or afford housing):
- Living in a shelter or transitional shelter:
- Living in a hotel/motel:
- Other

*Note: In keeping with established practices regarding personally identifiable information, use the letter "s" to identify a number less than five (5).

78 students

After a careful analysis of historical demographic, attendance and achievement data for your STH population, what trends do you notice, and how can these trends inform the services and support provided for this population?

Trends demonstrate that more support throughout the school year regarding basic needs, need to be continually met such as supplies, food, clothing etc.  Additionally, results support the school's mantra in covering expenses when it comes to senior activities, clothing, trips, etc.

Describe the services you are planning to provide to the STH population. How were those services selected to best meet students' needs? How will you (or did you) utilize the STH Title I Survey to select services aligned to need?

P.S. 184m Shuang Wen will support parents and family members that are designated Students in Temporary Housing by: providing materials  and training to help parents work with their children to improve their achievement level, e.g., literacy, math and use of technology; providing parents with the information and training needed to effectively become involved in planning and decision making in support of the education of their children; fostering a caring and effective home-school partnership to ensure that parents can effectively support and monitor their child's progress; providing assistance to parents in understanding City, State and Federal standards and assessments; sharing information about school and parent related programs, meetings and other activities in a format, and in languages that parents can understand; providing professional development opportunities for school staff with the assistance of parents to improve outreach, communication skills and cultural competency in order to build stronger ties between parents and other members of the school community;

Prioritizing Students in Foster Care

As included in your school's Office of School and Youth Development Consolidated Plan-Child Child Abuse and Neglect Intervention and Prevention School Plan and in accordance with the federal Education Law 3244 – Education of Children in Foster Care (Effective 2018) establishes the rights of students placed, or moved, in foster care to:

- Continue attending school of origin if determined to be in their best interest, or, if not, attend school near foster care placement,
- Immediate enrollment, and
- Transportation, if necessary to attend school of origin

Please respond to the questions below.

How many students in foster care are currently enrolled at your school? Provide a detailed breakdown of the social-emotional and academic supports available to them.

What targeted supports are in place for students in foster care, including those newly transitioning into the foster care system? How does your school ensure these students receive the necessary interventions to promote stability and success?

After analyzing historical demographic, attendance, and achievement data for students in foster care, what trends have emerged? How can these insights be used to improve the services and support provided to this population?

What specific strategies does your school implement to ensure students in foster care, particularly those in transitional grades, receive targeted Social-Emotional Learning (SEL) support? How do these strategies help address academic and behavioral challenges?

Section 7: Parent and Family Engagement Policy and School-Parent Compact

Parent and Family Engagement Policy

Directions: The Parent and Family Engagement Policy should describe how your school will plan and implement effective parent and family engagement activities and/or strategies to improve student academic achievement and school performance. The School-Parent Compact (SPC) is a component of the Parent and Family Engagement Policy (PFEP) that outlines how parents, the entire school staff, and students will share this responsibility.

The activities and/or strategies included in your school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy should align with current Comprehensive Education Plan (CEP) goals for improving student achievement and should be developed or updated with input and feedback from parent leaders and the Parent Coordinator. In addition, if the school community will be engaged in central parent engagement initiatives, such as Parent Academy, which will provide training for school communities to help strengthen family-school partnerships, please be sure to include these activities in the school's policy.

In Title I schools, the Title I Parent Advisory Council (PAC) represents the Title I parent community in supporting parent and family engagement. The Title I PAC Chairperson will serve in a consultative role with the SLT representing the school's Title I parents. Schools are encouraged to use the sample Parent and Family Engagement and SPC templates below (which meet federal Title I parent and family engagement requirements) as guidance for updating the school's current policy.

Parent and Family Engagement Policy

Educational research shows a positive correlation between effective parental engagement and student achievement. The overall aim of this policy is to develop a parent and family engagement policy that will establish expectations and objectives for meaningful parent and family engagement in the school community. [School Name], in compliance with Section 1116 of Title I, Part A of the Every Student Succeeds Act (ESSA), is responsible for creating and implementing a parent and family engagement policy to strengthen the connection and support of student achievement between the school and the families. The school's policy is designed to keep parents informed by actively involving them in planning and decision-making in support of the education of their children. Parents are encouraged to actively participate on the School Leadership Team, Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association), and Title I Parent Advisory Council as trained volunteers and welcomed members of the school community.

Support for Parents and Family Members of Title I Students

Shuang Wen PS 184m will support parents and family members of Title I students by:
- providing materials and training to help parents work with their children to improve their achievement level, e.g., literacy, math and use of technology;
- providing parents with the information and training needed to effectively become involved in planning and decision making in support of the education of their children;
- fostering a caring and effective home-school partnership to ensure that parents can effectively support and monitor their child's progress;
- providing assistance to parents in understanding City, State and Federal standards and assessments;
- sharing information about school and parent related programs, meetings and other activities in a format, and in languages that parents can understand;
- providing professional learning opportunities for school staff with the assistance of parents to improve outreach, communication skills and cultural competency in order to build stronger ties between parents and other members of the school community;

Parental Involvement and School Quality

The school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy was designed based upon a careful assessment of the needs of all parents/guardians, including parents/guardians of Multilingual Learners/English Language Learners (ML/ELL), and students with disabilities. The school community, with the meaningful involvement of parents and family members, will conduct an annual evaluation of the content and effectiveness of this parent and family engagement policy with Title I parents to improve the academic quality of the school. The findings of the evaluation through school surveys and feedback forms will be used to design strategies to more effectively meet the needs of parents and family members and enhance the school's Title I program. This information will be maintained by the school.

In developing the Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy, parents of Title I participating students, parent members of the school's Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association), as well as parent members of the School Leadership Team, were consulted on the proposed Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy and asked to survey their members for additional input. To increase and improve parent involvement and school quality, the school will:
- actively involve and engage parents and family members in the planning, review and evaluation of the effectiveness of the school's Title I program as outlined in the School Comprehensive Education Plan, including the implementation of the school's Title I Parent and Family Engagement Policy and School-Parent Compact;
- engage all parents in discussion and decisions regarding the required Title I, 1% set-aside funds, which are allocated directly to the school to supplement parent and family engagement activities, including family literacy and parenting skills;
- ensure that the Title I funds allocated for parent and family engagement are utilized to implement activities and strategies as described in the school's Parent and Family Engagement Policy and the School-Parent Compact;
- support school-level committees that include parents who are members of the School Leadership Team, the Parent Association (or Parent-Teacher Association) and Title I Parent Advisory Council. This includes providing technical support and ongoing professional learning, especially in developing leadership skills;
- maintain a Parent Coordinator (or a dedicated staff person) to serve as a liaison between the school and families. The Parent Coordinator or a dedicated staff person will provide parent workshops based on the assessed needs of the parents of children who attend the school and will work to ensure that the school environment is welcoming and inviting to all parents. The Parent Coordinator will also maintain a log of events and activities planned for parents each month and file a report with the central office.;
- conduct parent workshops with topics that may include: parenting skills, understanding educational accountability grade-level curriculum and assessment expectations; literacy, accessing community and support services; and technology training to build parents' capacity to help their children at home;

- provide opportunities for parents to help them understand the accountability system, e.g., ESSA/State accountability system, student proficiency levels, Annual School Report Card, School Quality Report, Quality Review Report, Learning Environment Survey Report;
- host the required Annual Title I Parent Meeting each school year to advise parents of children participating in the Title I program about the school's Title I funded program(s), their right to be involved in the program and the parent and family engagement requirements under Title I, Part A, Section 1116 and other applicable sections under ESSA;
- schedule additional parent meetings, e.g., quarterly meetings, with flexible times, such as meetings in the morning or evening, to share information about the school's educational program and other initiatives of the Chancellor and allow parents to provide suggestions;
- translate all critical school documents and provide interpretation during meetings and events as needed.

Encouraging School-Level Parental Involvement

Shuang Wen PS 184m will further encourage school-level parent and family engagement by:

Language Allocation Policy Outline

Language Allocation Policy Outline

2025-26 Language Allocation Policy (LAP)

This submission form supports schools with organizing a well-conceived school-based Language Allocation Policy (LAP) that describes high quality programs for Multilingual Learners/English Language Learners (MLs/ELLs). This is an annual plan of how your school will support the linguistic and academic needs of MLs/ELLs and must be completed yearly. The Language Allocation Policy (LAP) is a part of schools' Comprehensive Education Plan (CEP).

This is a living document. Any school-wide changes involving the instruction of MLs/ELLs, such as the addition or expansion of a Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) or Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) program, should be updated in this form.

Agenda, minutes of LAP meetings, and LAP team members' attendance at meetings should be kept readily available on file in the school with all other ML/ELL critical documents.  When preparing your school's submission, provide extended responses in the available spaces.

For additional information, refer to the NYC DOE Policy and Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs. For additional support with ML/ELL policy, please reach out to your respective ML/ELL Director or ELL Compliance Performance Specialist; for support with ML/ELL instruction, please contact your ML/ELL Services Administrator.

Part III: ML/ELL Programming

Please refer to New York State Commissioner's Regulation (CR) Part 154 Units of Study Tables as you describe academic programming for MLs/ELLs at your school below. Please do not leave any fields blank and indicate "N/A" for any fields that are not applicable.

Describe your English as a New Language (ENL), and if applicable Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE), and Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) programs. For each program, include:

- How stand-alone ENL is implemented as per CR Part 154
- How integrated ENL is implemented as per CR Part 154
- How students are grouped (e.g., block [class travels together as a group], ungraded [all students regardless of grade are in one class], heterogeneous [mixed proficiency levels], homogenous [proficiency level is the same in one class]).

a. English as a New Language (ENL)
Stand-alone ENL:

At SW school, the English as a New Language (ENL) program is designed to comply with CR Part 154, providing standalone ENL instruction for English Language Learners (ELLs) based on their proficiency levels.

Kindergarten: Entering and emerging students receive standalone ENL instruction twice a week, where they are pulled out from their regular classes for focused English language instruction with an ENL teacher. This time is dedicated to building foundational language skills.

Grades 1-5: Entering students receive standalone ENL instruction four times a week. Emerging students receive pull-out services twice a week. This standalone instruction provides an environment where students can focus exclusively on developing their English language skills, separate from their regular academic classes.

Grades 6-8: Entering and emerging students receive standalone ENL instruction provided by an ESOL teacher. Standalone instruction occurs four times a week for entering students, while emerging students receive pull-out services twice a week. In middle school, this instruction helps students work on language acquisition in a more structured, focused setting, preparing them for integrated learning in other subjects.

Student Grouping: ELL students in standalone instruction are grouped heterogeneously, meaning students of different proficiency levels may learn together, providing opportunities for peer support and collaboration. Standalone ENL classes provide targeted instruction outside of the students' main academic classes, allowing them to focus solely on language development. This grouping model ensures that students' language needs are met while preparing them for academic success in their other subject areas.

Integrated ENL:

At SW school, the English as a New Language (ENL) program provides integrated instruction to support English Language Learners (ELLs) in developing their English skills while learning academic content, in compliance with CR Part 154.

Kindergarten: Transition, Expanding, and Former ELLs (FELLs) receive integrated ENL instruction from bilingual licensed teachers within their regular classroom setting. This allows students to learn both language and content simultaneously, using English and their home language as needed.

Grades 1-5: Transition, Expanding, and FELLs students continue to receive integrated instruction from bilingual licensed teachers within their general education classes. These teachers incorporate language support while delivering academic content, ensuring that ELLs develop their English proficiency alongside their grade-level academic skills.

Grades 6-8: Integrated ENL instruction is provided in a co-teaching model, where an ESOL teacher collaborates with an ELA-certified teacher to deliver instruction in English Language Arts. This approach allows students to receive both language and academic instruction concurrently. Additionally, high-level academic (HLA) instruction for grades 6-8 is embedded in subjects like social studies, science, and math, with content area teachers who hold bilingual extensions. This integrated model ensures that students continue their language development in all content areas.

Student Grouping: In integrated instruction, ELLs are grouped heterogeneously, meaning students with different proficiency levels are mixed in the same classroom. This grouping allows students to interact with peers who may have varying language skills, promoting collaboration and mutual language development while participating in the same academic content. This method supports ELLs' progress in both language and subject learning without separating them from their mainstream classes.

b. Bilingual Education (If applicable)

Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE):

N/A

Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE):

At SW, there is a comprehensive ENL program that integrates standalone and integrated instruction across elementary and middle school, alongside a Dual Language program spanning from Kindergarten through 8th grade. ELLs are grouped heterogeneously, ensuring compliance with CR Part 154.2 guidelines, which mandate 360 minutes per week of ENL instruction for entering and emerging students.

Within this framework, entering and emerging students receive 180 minutes of standalone ENL instruction and 180 minutes of integrated ENL instruction. Emerging students initially start with 90 minutes of standalone ENL instruction at the beginning of the school year and transition to 90 minutes of integrated ENL instruction as the year progresses.

This approach not only supports language development but also facilitates integration into the broader academic curriculum. It allows for tailored instruction that meets the diverse needs of ELLs, fostering both linguistic and academic growth throughout their educational journey at SW.

2. How does your school ensure the mandated number of instructional minutes are provided according to students' English language proficiency levels in each program model?

At SW school, discussions about ELL programming begin during the registration process and continue throughout the academic year. Parents receive information about the available ENL services during orientation, including the different proficiency levels (entering, emerging, transitioning, expanding, and former ELLs) and the mandated 360 minutes of ENL instruction per week outlined by CR Part 154.2.

To ensure compliance with these instructional minutes, all entering students receive 180 minutes of standalone ENL instruction and 180 minutes of integrated ENL instruction each week. Emerging students may start with 90 minutes of standalone instruction, transitioning to integrated support as they progress. Transitioning, Expanding, and Former ELLs receive integrated ENL instruction within their regular classes, taught by bilingual or ENL-certified teachers.

The ENL team conducts assessments to determine each student's proficiency level and adjusts instructional plans accordingly. Monitoring logs track the delivery of instructional minutes, while ongoing conversations during parent-teacher conferences keep families informed about their child's language development and program adjustments. This comprehensive approach ensures that ELL programming is tailored to meet each student's needs and promotes their academic success.

We ensure that the mandated number of instructional minutes are provided according to students' English language proficiency levels through a structured approach that adheres to CR Part 154.2 guidelines.

Program Structure: All entering students receive a total of 360 minutes of ENL instruction per week, split between 180 minutes of standalone ENL instruction and 180 minutes of integrated ENL instruction. Emerging students have the flexibility to start with 90 minutes of standalone instruction, transitioning to integrated instruction as they progress.

Assessment and Grouping: The ENL team conducts initial assessments during the registration process to determine each student's English language proficiency level (entering, emerging, transitioning, expanding, and former ELLs). This assessment informs instructional planning and grouping.

Collaboration Between Teachers: ENL and classroom teachers collaborate to monitor and document the delivery of both standalone and integrated ENL services, ensuring that all instructional minutes are met according to each student's proficiency level.

Tracking and Monitoring: Instructional logs track the minutes provided to each student, guaranteeing compliance with the mandated instructional minutes.

Ongoing Communication: Regular conversations with parents during conferences and progress meetings keep families informed about their child's language development, instructional minutes, and any necessary adjustments to their programming.

By combining structured programming, regular assessments, and effective communication, SW school ensures that all ELL students receive the mandated instructional minutes tailored to their proficiency levels, supporting their language acquisition and academic success.

3. How are ENL, English Language Arts (ELA) and if applicable, Home Language Arts (HLA) instructional minutes delivered in each program model?

At SW school, the delivery of instructional minutes for ENL (English as a New Language), English Language Arts (ELA), and Home Language Arts (HLA) varies based on the program model and grade level:

1. ENL Instructional Minutes:

-Standalone ENL: Students receive dedicated ENL instruction separate from their regular classes. For entering and emerging students, SW provides 180 minutes per week of standalone ENL instruction. This may involve sessions focused solely on language development and proficiency.

-Integrated ENL: This model integrates ENL instruction within regular content classes. Entering and emerging students also receive 180 minutes per week of integrated ENL instruction. It involves co-teaching or collaboration between ENL and content area teachers to support language acquisition through subject-specific content.

2. ELA Instructional Minutes:

-ELA instruction typically encompasses reading, writing, speaking, and listening skills in English. The specific minutes allocated to ELA instruction can vary but are generally part of the regular school day curriculum. This may include differentiated instruction to meet the needs of all learners, including ELLs.

3. HLA Instructional Minutes:

-Home Language Arts (HLA): SW recognizes the importance of maintaining proficiency in students' home languages where applicable. HLA instruction is integrated into the curriculum for relevant grade levels, particularly in bilingual or dual-language programs. HLA instructional minutes are typically delivered through subject areas like social studies, science, and math, ensuring that language skills are reinforced across various academic domains.

Overall, SW school ensures that ENL, ELA, and HLA instructional minutes are aligned with educational standards and guidelines such as CR Part 154.2, providing comprehensive support for language development and academic achievement among its diverse student population.

4. For schools with Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) programs:

a. Which Dual Language Bilingual Education model is implemented? Explain how much of the instructional day (percentage) English proficient students and ELLs are integrated.

Shuang Wen uses the self contained model for kindergarten and first grade. Second grade through fifth grade using the side by side model. English and Mandarin instructions are taught 50/50 during a typical school day. In kindergarten and first grade we use the roller coaster language model, English and Mandarin is 50/50 during the school day. In second grade through fifth grade we use the alternate day language model. All core content areas are taught in both English and Mandarin. In all grades, emergent literacy is taught simultaneously.

b. In which language(s) is each core content area taught?

Core contents are taught in both English and Mandarin.

5. For schools with Transitional Bilingual Education (TBE) programs:

a. Which core content areas are taught bilingually?

N/A

Part IV: Data Analysis

Data Analysis

After reviewing and analyzing school demographic and assessment data, answer the following questions. The ELL Data Analysis Tool (EDAT) provided by the Office of Multilingual Learners can assist with identifying these data points.

For additional information, refer to Data Analysis Professional Learning Module and ELL Data Analysis Tool (EDAT) Professional Learning Module.

1. What is the composition of the ELL subgroups at your school?
What percentage of ELLs are Newcomers? How does effective instruction for Newcomers differ from those provided to Developing or Long-Term ELLs?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), 72.7% of our ELL population—40 out of 55 students—are classified as Newcomers. Instruction for Newcomers differs significantly from that provided to Developing or Long-Term ELLs. Newcomers require intensive support in foundational literacy and oral language development, often through visual scaffolds, realia, and home language connections when appropriate. Developing ELLs benefit from academic vocabulary instruction and structured reading and writing tasks, while Long-Term ELLs require targeted interventions to close persistent academic gaps and maintain language engagement. Instructional planning is aligned with CR Part 154.2, with services delivered through a combination of standalone and integrated ENL instruction, ensuring that the needs of all ELL subgroups are appropriately met.

What percentage of ELLs are Students with Inconsistent/Interrupted Formal Education (SIFE)? How do you differentiate effective instruction for SIFE?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), there are currently no ELLs identified as Students with Inconsistent/Interrupted Formal Education (SIFE). While we do not have SIFE students at this time, our ENL program is prepared to support them if identified in the future. Effective instruction for SIFE students is differentiated by providing targeted support in both literacy and content-area knowledge, with an emphasis on building academic foundations, addressing gaps in prior schooling, and supporting social-emotional needs. Instruction typically includes extended time for language development, use of visuals and realia, small-group instruction, and close collaboration with support staff to provide wraparound services.

What percentage of ELLs are Long-Term ELLs? How does effective instruction for Long-Term ELLs differ from instruction designed for Developing ELLs?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), 3.6% of our ELL population—2 out of 55 students—are classified as Long-Term English Language Learners (LTELLs). Effective instruction for LTELLs differs from that of Developing ELLs in that it focuses more heavily on addressing long-standing academic language gaps, re-engaging students in language learning, and supporting sustained literacy growth across content areas. LTELLs often benefit from small-group instruction that targets specific reading and writing skills, increased opportunities for academic discourse, and scaffolded assignments that emphasize language structures and vocabulary development. In contrast, instruction for Developing ELLs is typically focused on progressing toward proficiency through continued support in academic language, structured writing tasks, and vocabulary acquisition aligned to grade-level content.

What percentage of students are former ELLs? How is your school providing mandated instruction to former ELLs?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), 1.5% of students (11 students) were classified as Former ELLs in the 2023–2024 school year, and 2.2% (16 students) in the 2022–2023 school year. Former ELLs continue to receive mandated support in accordance with CR Part 154 regulations. Instructional support includes ongoing monitoring of academic progress, collaboration between ENL and content-area teachers, and differentiated instruction within the general education classroom. In addition to language scaffolds such as sentence frames, academic vocabulary reinforcement, and language-rich discussions, accommodations embedded within the ELA and Math curricula that are designed to support current ELLs are also utilized to meet the needs of Former ELLs. These supports help ensure continued language development, access to grade-level content, and long-term academic success.

2. Examine all at-risk levels that might adversely affect ELLs at your school. What trends do you notice about the at-risk levels of ELLs at your school?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), multiple risk factors have been identified among our English Language Learners (ELLs) that may adversely impact their academic progress. In the most recent school year, 15 ELLs scored at Level 1 or 2 on the NYS ELA assessment, and 10 of those students demonstrated consistently low performance across two consecutive years (2022–2023 and 2023–2024). Furthermore, 24 ELLs did not demonstrate sufficient English language proficiency progress on the Spring 2024 NYSESLAT, indicating a need for intensified language instruction and intervention. Housing insecurity is another critical concern, with 26 ELLs currently identified as living in temporary housing. These at-risk indicators reveal a trend of persistent academic and language development challenges for a significant subset of our ELL population. The overlap between low ELA performance, limited ELP progress, and housing instability suggests the need for comprehensive, coordinated support—including targeted ENL instruction, access to wraparound services, and consistent progress monitoring—to address both academic and non-academic barriers to student success.

3. Examine all at-risk levels that might adversely affect former ELLs at your school. What trends do you notice about the at-risk levels of former ELLs at your school?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), several at-risk indicators have been identified among our ELL and Former ELL populations. In the most recent school year, 5 Former ELLs scored at Level 1 or 2 on the NYS ELA assessment, indicating a need for continued academic and language support. Of these, 2 students demonstrated persistent underperformance, having scored at Level 1 or 2 in both the 2022–2023 and 2023–2024 school years. Additionally, 5 Former ELLs are currently identified as students in temporary housing, a factor that can further impact academic stability and performance. A notable trend is that a small subset of Former ELLs continues to experience challenges in achieving grade-level proficiency, suggesting a need for ongoing targeted instruction, social-emotional supports, and close progress monitoring to address both academic and environmental risk factors.

4. What are the home languages of ELLs with the largest representation at your school? What staff, structures, and processes does your school have to support communication and learning that values these home languages?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), the home languages with the largest representation among our ELLs are Mandarin Chinese and Spanish. To support communication and learning that values these home languages, the school maintains a strong bilingual program in Mandarin Chinese, with certified bilingual teachers providing instruction in both English and Chinese. In addition, the school has staff members who speak Spanish and are available to assist with parent communication, interpretation, and family engagement. Translation and interpretation services are also accessed through the DOE's Translation and Interpretation Unit to ensure that all families receive timely and accurate information in their preferred language. The school's Language Access Coordinators help facilitate these supports. Culturally and linguistically responsive practices are embedded in both instruction and family engagement to affirm students' identities and foster meaningful connections with families.

5. What are the racial and ethnic classifications of ELLs at your school? How are ELLs being included in planning and delivery of Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Education (CR-SE)?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), the majority of ELLs identify as Asian, primarily of Chinese descent, with a smaller number identifying as Hispanic or Latino. The school is committed to embedding Culturally Responsive and Sustaining Education (CR-SE) practices across all grade levels and content areas. ELLs are included in both planning and delivery through instructional materials and classroom activities that reflect their cultural and linguistic backgrounds. Teachers integrate texts, visuals, and projects that celebrate students' home cultures and lived experiences, while also encouraging cross-cultural understanding. Bilingual staff and ENL teachers collaborate with classroom teachers to ensure that lessons affirm students' identities and promote equity. Additionally, student voice is uplifted through classroom discussions, journaling, and performance-based tasks that allow ELLs to express their perspectives and heritage. Schoolwide events and family engagement initiatives also reflect and honor the cultural diversity of the ELL population.

6. What trends do you notice in reviewing English Language Proficiency (ELP) growth at your school? How many students met ELP sufficient progress? How many students did not meet ELP sufficient progress?

Upon reviewing English Language Proficiency (ELP) growth data at Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), notable trends indicate that while a portion of ELLs are making expected progress, a significant number continue to require targeted language support. In the most recent NYSESLAT administration (Spring 2024), 31 students met ELP sufficient progress, while 24 students did not. This data reflects that approximately 56% of ELLs met the state's criteria for expected growth. Those who did not meet sufficient progress include students at various grade levels and proficiency bands, suggesting the need for differentiated instructional strategies and increased collaboration between ENL and content-area teachers. The school continues to review instructional practices and support systems to ensure all ELLs are receiving equitable opportunities to advance their language development.

7. When you look at the results of the New York State English as a Second Language Achievement Test (NYSESLAT), what stands out? What trends are there for each modality?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), analysis of the New York State English as a Second Language Achievement Test (NYSESLAT) results reveals a consistent trend: writing and speaking modalities continue to present the greatest challenges for English Language Learners (ELLs). In contrast, students tend to perform more strongly in listening and reading, which are receptive modalities.

Writing scores often reflect limited sentence development, grammar usage, and organizational structure, while speaking scores suggest difficulties with academic oral language, pronunciation, and elaboration. These patterns highlight the need for more explicit instruction and practice in structured oral expression and written language production.
Given that Target of Measurement (ToM) in NYSESLAT focuses on students' ability to demonstrate English language proficiency across modalities, these results suggest that students require additional support in producing language that meets academic expectations. To address these gaps, teachers are integrating scaffolded speaking and writing activities into daily instruction, including:

Sentence frames to support syntactic development and clarity
Interactive discussions to build oral fluency and elaboration
Modeled writing to demonstrate organization and grammar usage
Peer dialogue to encourage authentic language use and feedback

Ongoing collaboration between ENL and classroom teachers ensures a more intentional focus on language development across content areas. This coordinated approach helps students better meet the ToM in productive modalities by embedding language-rich opportunities throughout the school day.

8. What is the relationship between students' performance on the NYSESLAT and other state assessments such as the ELA assessment, the Math assessment, and the Regents exams?

An analysis of student performance at Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M) reveals a moderate correlation between NYSESLAT proficiency levels and outcomes on state assessments, particularly in ELA. Among students who took the Spring ELA assessment, 11 received a Level 1, indicating both limited English proficiency and academic performance, while 5 received a Level 3, demonstrating that some ELLs are able to meet grade-level standards despite language learning needs. In Math, which is less language-dependent, performance was generally stronger: only 1 student received a Level 1, 5 received a Level 2, 17 received a Level 3, and 10 received a Level 4. These results suggest that ELLs at Shuang Wen are more likely to meet or exceed standards in Math than in ELA, likely due to reduced language complexity in the Math exam. No ELLs participated in Regents exams during the reporting period. The data highlights the importance of continued support in academic language development, especially in writing and reading, to strengthen performance on literacy-based assessments.

9. What are trends reflected in the NYSESLAT results of ELL subgroups such as ELLs with IEPs and SIFE? What do you think is impacting the results for these subgroups?

A review of the 2024 NYSESLAT results at Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M) reveals notable disparities between ELLs with IEPs and those without. Of the 16 ELLs with IEPs, only 3 reached the Commanding level, and a majority remained at the Transitioning or Expanding levels. In comparison, among the 54 ELLs without IEPs, a higher proportion—13 students—achieved Commanding status. This trend suggests that ELLs with IEPs face compounded challenges in acquiring English proficiency, likely due to the intersection of language acquisition needs and learning disabilities. These students may require more intensive, individualized support, especially in expressive modalities such as speaking and writing. Factors impacting these results include limited access to language-rich peer interaction, the need for more integrated co-teaching models, and the challenge of aligning ENL strategies with IEP goals. Currently, there are no Students with Inconsistent/Interrupted Formal Education (SIFE) at our school. Moving forward, continued collaboration between ENL and special education staff, as well as differentiated instructional planning, will be essential to supporting language growth for ELLs with IEPs.

Part V: ML/ELL Instruction

Tier 1: Core Instruction

For additional information, refer to ML/ELL Instruction Professional Learning Module.

Tier 1 Core Instruction

1. How does your school provide ELLs with a high-quality academic experience that leads to deeper learning?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), we ensure a high-quality academic experience for English Language Learners (ELLs) by integrating language support across all content areas and promoting deeper learning through tasks that require critical thinking, collaboration, and problem-solving. Teachers use scaffolding strategies—such as visuals, modeling, and sentence frames—to make rigorous content accessible while building language proficiency. Instruction is differentiated based on language level and learning needs, and culturally responsive practices are embedded to affirm students' identities and enhance engagement. Academic language instruction, including vocabulary, speaking, and writing, is explicitly taught to support full participation. Collaboration between ENL and content-area teachers ensures instruction is aligned and data-driven. As a Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) school, we promote biliteracy and value students' home languages as tools for deeper understanding and academic success.

2. How does your school's leadership team ensure ELLs have access to core instruction/curriculum?

The Instructional Leadership Team (ILT) meets regularly to:

Develop a shared vision of high-quality teaching and learning, ensuring ongoing communication and alignment across all school sub-groups, including ELLs.
Support and provide feedback to facilitate teacher growth, rooted in evidence of student learning and language development.
Allocate and deploy resources based on data-driven decision-making, including analysis of language proficiency data to inform instructional strategies and scaffolds.
Focus on continuous staff learning through rigorous examination of academic and language acquisition data.
Schedule adequate time and space for collaborative planning and professional development, with a focus on integrating language supports into all content areas.
Manage critical school-wide systems and processes essential for effective teaching and learning, ensuring ELLs are included in all core instruction.
Build and enhance the capacity of teacher leaders by leading learning walks, conducting peer observations, engaging in lesson study, and analyzing student work with attention to both academic and linguistic progress.

Additionally, ENL (English as a New Language) teachers participate in School Leadership Team (SLT) meetings on a trimester basis to share successes and areas for improvement related to ENL instruction. These meetings include discussions on how language proficiency data is used to address academic needs and build a shared understanding of language-academic supports across all content areas, fostering a school-wide commitment to equitable access for ELLs.

3. Describe how core content is delivered in each program model. Specify language, and the instructional approaches and methods to foster language development and meet the demands of the Next Generation Learning Standards.

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), core content is delivered through a combination of Stand-Alone ENL, Integrated ENL, and Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) models to ensure that English Language Learners (ELLs) receive high-quality, language-rich instruction aligned with the Next Generation Learning Standards.

Stand-Alone ENL Instruction is delivered in English and focuses on explicit English language development using curricula such as the EL Education modules, Heggerty, Fundations, Finish Line ENL, and Educating Powerful Writers. Instructional strategies include word banks, visual aids, sentence frames, cloze passages, and guided writing with the use of graphic organizers, bilingual glossaries, and translated supports as needed. Technology tools and online platforms (e.g., BrainPOP ELL, NewsELA, Epic) are used to reinforce language and content access.

Integrated ENL Instruction embeds language support within core content classes and is co-delivered by content-area and ENL teachers. Instructional strategies include visual scaffolds, real-time feedback, sentence starters, and content-specific academic language development. The same core curricula are used, with language goals layered into lessons to meet both content and language standards.

Subject-Specific Supports are embedded into Math, Science, and Social Studies instruction. In Math, students use Illustrative Mathematics and Algebra I curricula, supported by visuals, sentence strips, and real-world applications. Science instruction uses Amplify Science and aligns with NGSS through practices like modeling and analyzing data, while Social Studies uses Passport to Social Studies in both English and Chinese to support DLBE. All subject areas incorporate strategies such as chunking texts, guiding questions, graphic organizers, and bilingual resources to ensure access and deeper understanding.

All instruction is designed to develop academic language and content mastery, with scaffolds tailored to students' language proficiency levels, and is delivered in English and Mandarin, depending on the program model.

4. What instructional strategies and grade-level materials, including technology, do teachers of MLs/ELLs use to provide access to grade level academic content areas and accelerate English language development? Include core content area and language materials with consideration to specific ELL subgroups.

a. ELLs with IEPs

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), teachers of Multilingual Learners (MLs)/English Language Learners (ELLs) use a variety of instructional strategies, grade-level materials, and technology tools to ensure access to academic content and accelerate English language development. Instruction is differentiated based on students' language proficiency levels and learning needs, with special considerations for subgroups such as ELLs with IEPs.

Teachers implement scaffolding strategies such as visual aids, simplified language, sentence frames, graphic organizers, and bilingual glossaries to support comprehension and expression in all content areas. Language development is embedded in core instruction through project-based learning, thematic units, and collaborative group work to build academic vocabulary and oral language skills.

Technology integration is a key component of instruction. i-Ready provides personalized reading and math support; Acadience (formerly DIBELS Next) assesses early literacy skills; and Heggerty Phonemic Awareness and Fundations strengthen foundational reading skills, especially for younger students and ELLs with IEPs. All In Learning Software is used for real-time formative assessment and immediate feedback, enabling teachers to track student progress and adjust instruction responsively. Additional digital platforms such as Khan Academy, Quizlet, Nearpod, Epic, and BrainPOP ELL enhance engagement and access to grade-level content.

Translation tools like Google Translate and bilingual digital glossaries support language access for newcomers and students at lower proficiency levels. All strategies and materials are aligned with the Next Generation Learning Standards, fostering both academic growth and English language development in an inclusive and culturally responsive environment.

b. SIFE

Currently, there are no identified SIFE students at Shuang Wen (SW). However, if a SIFE student enrolls, the school has a clear protocol in place to ensure appropriate identification and support:

Identification Process: The student will be interviewed using the official SIFE questionnaire, and the MLIS (Multilingual Learner Identification System) assessment will be administered to determine SIFE status. This ensures a standardized and thorough evaluation of the student's educational background and language proficiency.

Team-Based Support Planning: The Pupil Personnel Team (PPT) and Language Proficiency Team (LPT) will collaborate to assign all relevant teachers to collect academic and language data. These teams will meet to determine which services and supports are needed, ensuring a holistic and responsive approach.

Instructional Supports: If remote learning is in place, SIFE students will receive:

Live one-on-one or small group support to address individual learning gaps.
Technology-based tools such as:

Immersive Reader for text-to-speech support.
EPIC Books "Read to Me" and RAZ Kids for accessible reading materials.
Teacher-created audio recordings when digital tools are unavailable or incompatible with specific texts.

Differentiated materials and scaffolds, including:

Partially filled graphic organizers.
Sentence stems and modified reading materials.
Use of Pear Deck (Google Slides extension) to allow alternative response formats like drawing or circling answers.
Flipgrid to support oral language development, especially for students with stronger speaking skills than literacy skills, in either English or their native language.

This multi-layered approach ensures that if a SIFE student enrolls, they will be met with a responsive, inclusive, and well-supported learning environment tailored to their unique needs.

c. Newcomers

Newcomer students receive personalized instruction through an online platform that supports both live and self-paced learning. This platform helps build language skills across listening, speaking, reading, and writing, while offering tools like translated materials, graphic organizers, and sentence stems. It's used during ENL standalone classes, general education lessons with co-teachers, and after-school programs to ensure consistent, scaffolded support tailored to each student's language level.

d. Long Term ELLs

These students are serviced through an integrated classroom setting. ENL teachers work with their classroom teachers to modify content and provide appropriate language supports. Based on students' performance and language levels, ELL providers may provide one-on-one or small-group instructions for struggling ELLs or those who need to work further on specific learning targets. ENL providers also provide language objectives that can make academic language more accessible to ELLs.

5. What supports does your school provide to ELLs with IEPs to achieve their IEP goals and attain English language proficiency within the least restrictive environment?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), when a student is identified as both an English Language Learner and a Student with a Disability (ELL-SWD), classroom teachers and service providers work collaboratively to continuously assess and respond to the student's readiness, learning preferences, language development, and cultural background.

Differentiated instruction is used to address the diverse needs of ELL-SWDs within inclusive settings. This includes mixed instructional groupings, co-teaching, peer tutoring, learning centers, and individualized accommodations to ensure equitable access to the curriculum. Teachers refer to resources such as Considering the Influence of Language Differences and Disability on Learning Behaviors, which provides a matrix of behaviors across skill areas (listening, speaking, reading) and helps determine whether challenges stem from language acquisition or disability.

In addition, Selecting Appropriate Accommodations for Students with Disabilities offers clear guidance on effective and compliant supports, highlighting best practices and common pitfalls. These instructional approaches are strengthened through ongoing collaboration with related service providers—including speech therapists, occupational therapists, and special education staff—to ensure that instructional planning aligns with both IEP goals and language development objectives.

6. How is home language assessed in each program model (DLBE, TBE, and ENL)?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), which implements a Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) model in Mandarin Chinese and English, home language is assessed through multiple measures. These include the Home Language Identification Survey (HLIS), initial informal interviews, and ongoing formative assessments in both Mandarin and English. Teachers regularly evaluate students' oral language use, comprehension, reading, and writing skills in Mandarin to monitor bilingual development and inform instruction.

These assessments help ensure that students are supported in both their home language and English as they progress through the dual language program.

7. (For grades 6-12 only) What language electives are offered to MLs/ELLs? How is your school preparing MLs/ELLs to obtain the New York State Seal of Biliteracy?

Shuang Wen is a Mandarin/English dual language school from 3k to 8th. Students from grades 3 to 8 takes the Chinese language proficiency test yearly.

8. Describe systems and structures for supporting co-teaching and collaboration among teachers for all ELL program models available at your school (e.g. integrated co-teaching, Dual Language Bilingual Education teacher partnerships, etc.).

In our school, we have implemented robust systems and structures to support co-teaching and collaboration among teachers for all ELL program models, including Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE). Here's how we facilitate effective collaboration and partnership:

Team Teaching: Co-teachers (one general education and one ELL specialist) plan lessons together, deliver instruction jointly, and provide integrated support to all students, fostering language development and academic achievement.

Regular Meetings: Co-teachers meet regularly to discuss curriculum alignment, instructional strategies, assessment data, and student progress.

Data Analysis: Analyze student performance data, including language proficiency levels and academic growth, to inform instructional decisions and interventions.

Vertical and Horizontal Alignment: Ensure coherence and alignment across grade levels and content areas within the DLBE program, promoting continuity and progression in language acquisition and content mastery.

Training and Workshops: Provide professional development opportunities focused on co-teaching strategies, language acquisition methodologies, cultural competence, and effective collaboration practices.

9. Describe how your overall, annual professional learning plan ensures that all staff – including administrators, teachers and -non-pedagogical staff – incorporates learning specifically related to the academic and social emotional needs of MLs/ELLs. Professional learning topics might include co-teaching strategies, or integrating language and content instruction.

For the 2025-2026 school year the school provided workshops and PD of the following to support ELL students:

Schoolwide training on i-Ready Diagnostic administration and data analysis

Multilingual Learner/English Language Learner (MLL/ELL) policy and instructional support sessions

Professional development on implementing differentiated instruction across content areas

Workshops focused on classroom leadership, management, and setting clear expectations

Wilson Reading System coaching sessions to support foundational literacy instruction

Ongoing coaching for EL (English Language Arts) curriculum implementation

Ongoing i-Ready Math coaching sessions to support data-driven math instruction

10. Describe your school's professional development plan in order to meet the mandated Continuing Teacher and Leader Education (CTLE) ELL specific hours for certification renewal as per CR Part 154 (15% of total hours for all certified faculty [holders of professional certificates in the classroom teaching service, educational leadership service and level III teaching assistant certificate holders] and 50% of total hours for bilingual education/ENL teachers receive ELL-specific professional development).

All teachers are required to attend PD and support workshops outside or offered in school. In the 2025-2026 school year staff attended:

Assessment

SCREENERS

11. Which screening assessments (e.g.iReady, MAP Growth, Acadience, or STAR Reading) does your school use to guide instructional planning for your ELLs?

School Wide we use iReady diagnostics and Acadience reading assessment to gather data and plan next steps based on diagnostic results

12. For all grades, list and describe your targeted intervention programs for ELLs in ELA, Math, and other core content areas (specify ELL subgroups targeted). Include the language(s) in which the intervention services are offered.

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), targeted intervention for English Language Learners (ELLs) is provided across all grade levels in core content areas, including English Language Arts (ELA), Math, Science, and Social Studies. Classroom teachers use formative assessments, classroom performance, and teacher observations to identify students in need of additional support. Based on this data, teachers implement small-group instruction using flexible grouping strategies tailored to students' academic and language development needs. These groups are adjusted throughout the year to ensure students receive timely and relevant support. Students also engage in individualized instruction using the i-Ready platform, which provides adaptive learning paths in both reading and mathematics. These interventions are delivered in English and support all ELL subgroups, including newcomers and developing English learners.

In Science and Social Studies, targeted support is embedded into classroom instruction through teacher-student conferencing. Teachers provide individualized guidance and scaffold content-specific vocabulary and tasks to help ELLs access grade-level material. This approach ensures that students receive language support while also developing conceptual understanding in content areas. Instructional strategies are adjusted based on each student's progress, with a focus on ensuring equity in academic participation and success.

To further support ELLs beyond the classroom setting, the school offers a Title III-funded after-school program. This program is specifically designed to promote English language development in the domains of listening, speaking, reading, and writing. Activities are aligned with the New York State Next Generation ELA standards and language acquisition goals, with the intent to enhance performance on both classroom-based and state assessments. The program serves ELLs across various grade levels and proficiency bands, offering differentiated instruction in a small-group setting.

In addition to classroom-based and after-school supports, Shuang Wen School provides bilingual services to meet the needs of students whose home languages are Mandarin Chinese and Spanish. Bilingual paraprofessionals assist in Mandarin and Spanish, offering in-class language support and reinforcing key content and vocabulary. The school also offers at-risk bilingual speech therapy in Mandarin Chinese for students identified with speech and language needs. For students requiring intensive reading intervention, the Reading Rescue program is implemented in English. This evidence-based program supports foundational literacy development and is offered to ELLs who require targeted support in decoding, fluency, and comprehension.

These targeted interventions reflect the school's commitment to providing culturally and linguistically responsive supports that ensure equitable access to instruction for all ELL subgroups.

13. For all grades, describe how your school uses data to guide instruction for ELLs within a Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS). Refer to the Instructional Leadership Tool for MLs and ELLs and MTSS Guide for MLs and ELLs to help in the development and implementation of your school's plan for MLs/ELLs.

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), we use a data-driven Multi-Tiered System of Supports (MTSS) to ensure the academic and language success of our Multilingual Learners (MLs)/English Language Learners (ELLs) across all grades. Our approach integrates academic, language, and social-emotional indicators to guide decisions about instruction, intervention, and support services. Teachers regularly analyze multiple data sources—including NYSESLAT scores, i-Ready diagnostics, classroom assessments, teacher observations, and ELA/math state test results—to identify ELLs who may need Tier 1 differentiation, Tier 2 targeted intervention, or Tier 3 intensive support.

Within Tier 1, all ELLs receive high-quality, scaffolded instruction in their core classrooms, with linguistic accommodations and strategies aligned to the Instructional Leadership Tool for MLs and ELLs. Teachers differentiate instruction using sentence frames, visuals, graphic organizers, and home language support when appropriate. In this tier, instruction is aligned with grade-level content and is culturally and linguistically responsive to ensure access for all ELLs, including newcomers, developing, and long-term ELLs.

Tier 2 support is provided to ELLs who demonstrate academic or language delays based on progress monitoring data. These students receive additional small-group instruction during designated intervention blocks or after-school programming. Intervention content focuses on foundational language and literacy skills, oral language development, and academic vocabulary. Teachers meet regularly to review formative assessment data and adjust groupings and instructional strategies accordingly.

Tier 3 support is reserved for ELLs who continue to show limited progress despite Tier 1 and Tier 2 interventions. These students receive more intensive, individualized support, which may include increased ENL service hours, one-on-one instruction, or referrals to special education evaluations when appropriate. The MTSS process at our school includes collaboration between classroom teachers, ENL teachers, interventionists, related service providers, and families. The MTSS Guide for MLs and ELLs informs our planning by emphasizing the importance of culturally responsive decision-making, fidelity of implementation, and the integration of language and content instruction.

This comprehensive approach ensures that ELLs receive appropriate support based on their individual needs and are monitored regularly for progress toward both academic and English language proficiency goals.

FORMATIVE

14. Which formative assessments (e.g. NYC performance Tasks, ELL Periodic Assessment, HLA Assessment, DRA, teacher-created assessments, etc.) are used to inform and drive instruction?

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), a range of formative and summative assessments are used to guide instruction for English Language Learners (ELLs) across all grade levels. These include DIBELS/Acadience for monitoring foundational reading skills, i-Ready Diagnostic Assessments in Reading and Math for personalized instructional planning, and teacher-created assessments such as running records, writing samples, and exit slips to inform daily instruction. Students in grades 3–8 take an annual Chinese language assessment to monitor home language development as part of the school's Dual Language Bilingual Education (DLBE) program. In addition, all students in grades 3–8 participate in the New York State ELA and Math Assessments, which provide critical data on academic achievement and language application in grade-level content. These assessment tools collectively support instructional decision-making, intervention planning, and progress monitoring for all ELLs and ELL subgroups.

15. How do you ensure that MLs/ELLs are appropriately evaluated in their home languages throughout the year?

Remote instruction and learning for Newcomer ELLs occur during ENL standalone sessions, general education classes with co-teachers, and extended time away from in-person instruction, such as after-school programs or during school closures. After students complete the NYSITELL, their data is shared with ENL and classroom teachers to assess academic levels in their home language. When needed, assessments and exams can be translated or supported by interpreters. Platforms like EngageNY offer translated math assessments, and staff can seek additional resources for languages not covered by the NYC DOE's Office of Translation and Interpretation. These efforts ensure that home language proficiency is assessed throughout the year, even during remote learning periods.

SUMMATIVE

16. Which summative assessments (e.g. NYSESLAT, ELA, Math, Regents, etc.) are used to evaluate the effectiveness of your ML/ELL programs and how does it inform instructional design and curricular decisions? (Refer to the ELL Data Analysis Tool).

ELL/MLL Academic assessment baseline
NYSESLAT Scores
NYSITELL to determine proficiency level
Beginning of the unit or chapter tests
ELA
(Educating Powerful Writers MS.)
End of the term or semester tests (teacher created or from curriculum , Wonders and Powerful writers) used)

17. What is your NYSESLAT administration plan? How does your school ensure that all ELLs are tested with the NYSESLAT annually? Include the titles of the staff that will administer and score the assessment. Please describe your plan to ensure that all ELLs and former ELLs continue to receive mandated instruction during the testing period.

NYSESLAT team includes ENL teachers, teachers of ELLs.

ENL teachers will not administer or score when he or she when scheduled to teach. If when ENL teacher is needed a sub will be hired to ensure mandated hours are serviced.

ENL teachers also assigns asynchronous work in google classroom for students to work on independently when ENL teachers are scheduled to do testing.

18. How does your school ensure that current and former ELLs receive necessary accommodations for state assessments, including the Specialized High School Admissions Test (SHSAT) if applicable?

Identification and Assessment: Schools first identify students who are current ELLs or former ELLs through language proficiency assessments and educational history.

Individualized Accommodation Plans: Based on identified needs through 504, schools develop individualized plans for each student, outlining specific accommodations required for assessments.

Part VI: Family Partnership

Family Partnership

Required Meetings Under CR Part 154

Describe your schools' plan to ensure families of ELLs are provided with the required meetings specified below as per CR Part 154. Include:

- Topics discussed during these meetings
- How your school ensures families receive necessary translation/interpretation supports to meaningfully engage in the meetings
- How your school schedules these meetings to facilitate attendance, and how your school maintains evidence of these meetings as required per the NYC DOE Policy and Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs.

a. ELL Program Orientation to inform parents/guardians of newly identified ELLs of ELL program options, including the program goals and requirements for all three ML/ELL program models: Dual Language Bilingual Education, Transitional Bilingual Education and English as a New Language regardless of whether the school currently has either type of bilingual program and provide a high-quality orientation section on the Next Generation Learning Standards, assessments, and school expectations for English Language Learners.

Organizing an ELL Program Orientation for parents/guardians of newly identified ELLs is a crucial step in ensuring that families are well-informed about the available program options, their goals, and requirements. This is a comprehensive outline for such an orientation at SW: Parents receive invite by email, phone call or letters sent home.

Greeting and Introductions: Welcome parents and guardians. Introduce key staff members, including the principal, ELL coordinator, ESL teachers, and any other relevant personnel. Translated materials and staff to translate or answer any questions or concerns in real time.

Family Engagement

2. Beyond the mandated meetings and orientations, describe how your school:
a. Ensures families receive all school communications and documents in the language they best understand. How are families able to respond or initiate communications in languages other than English?

To ensure effective communication with families who speak languages other than English, Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M) implements several strategies to facilitate both the receipt and initiation of communications.

Systems for Accessing Information on Language Preferences:
At the beginning of the school year, a Language Preference Survey is conducted to identify each family's preferred language for receiving school communications. This information is also collected through the Automated Tracking System (ATS) and the Enrollment and Demographic Analysis Tool (EDAT), allowing the school to maintain an accurate and comprehensive record of language preferences for ongoing planning and outreach. Families are informed of their right to interpretation and translation services during registration and orientation, ensuring equitable access from the start.

Overall Communication Plan:
To reach all families effectively, the school utilizes multilingual communication platforms including GAMA, ClassDojo, and Jupiter, which support timely information-sharing in families' preferred languages. Bilingual staff, including paraprofessionals and ENL teachers fluent in Mandarin and Spanish, provide additional support by assisting with verbal and written communication, interpreting during school meetings, and helping families navigate school systems. The school also organizes events and meetings with real-time interpretation services, including IEP meetings, parent-teacher conferences, and family workshops. Interpretation services are arranged in advance, and staff proactively ensure that families are able to fully participate.

Oral and Written Communication:
The school prioritizes oral access by offering interpretation services at all major school functions and parent meetings. For written communication, all newsletters, announcements, report cards, school policies, and consent forms are translated into the languages indicated in the language preference survey. Bilingual staff also assist with informal communication needs such as phone calls or classroom notices.

Process for Document Translation:
SW has an established process to ensure all family-facing documents are translated accurately. Professional translation services approved by the NYC DOE are used to maintain cultural and linguistic appropriateness. Translated materials are posted on the school website and updated regularly. Additionally, Title III and school-based funds are allocated specifically for translation and interpretation needs, including hiring interpreters for events and translating documents such as workshop materials and promotional flyers.

Bilingual Family Engagement and Community Events:
To further support communication and connection, the school hosts a variety of bilingual family events that reflect the cultural and linguistic diversity of the community. These include monthly Dual Language Karaoke Nights, Family Story Hours, Math Game Night for Grades K–8, and NYC Kids Rise Milestone Celebrations, all designed to foster parent engagement and build a strong home-school connection. Events are conducted in both English and Mandarin (and Spanish when appropriate) and are structured to be interactive and inclusive, encouraging families to actively participate in their children's academic and language development in a supportive, community-oriented environment.

By combining digital tools, human resources, and culturally responsive programming, Shuang Wen School ensures that families are not only informed, but also empowered to actively participate in their children's education in their home language.

b. Develops activities that foster empowerment for families of MLs/ELLs. Include how your school determines the needs of your community.

99% of parents says language translation and interpretation are readily available to me at all family events.

Developing activities that empower families of Multilingual Learners (MLs) and English Language Learners (ELLs), especially in a majority Asian community, requires a thorough understanding of their unique needs and cultural contexts.

Community/ family Liaison: Appoint a community liaison who is fluent in the primary languages spoken by the families at SW and understands the cultural nuances. This person can facilitate communication and help identify needs.

Collaboration with Local Organizations: Partner with local community organizations and cultural centers to gain insights and support in understanding the community's needs.

Parenting and Education Workshops: Provide workshops on topics such as navigating the school system, understanding curriculum and assessments, and supporting children's education at home.

Language Classes: Offer classes in English for parents to improve their language skills, which can help them support their children's education and communicate more effectively with the school.

Regular Communication: Maintain open lines of communication with families through newsletters, emails, and meetings, ensuring they are informed about upcoming activities and available resources.

Regularly evaluate the success of the programs and activities through surveys, focus groups, and academic performance data, and report the findings to the community to maintain transparency and trust.

c. Ensures families of MLs/ELLs are aware of family leadership opportunities (such as Parent Association (PA), School Leadership Team (SLT), Community Education Council (CEC), etc.)

We use various communication methods to inform all parents about school leadership, PTA, and SLT meetings:

Email and Paper Pamphlets: Sent to all parents with meeting details.

Text Messaging System: Used to remind parents about upcoming meetings.

Interpreters and Translated Materials: Provided in participants' preferred languages to ensure everyone can fully participate.

Social Media: Our PTA actively uses social media to announce and remind parents of upcoming meetings.

These efforts ensure that all parents are well-informed and can engage in our school community effectively.

3. What culturally and linguistically responsive partnerships do you currently have that support the needs of your school community?

Our school has established several culturally and linguistically responsive partnerships to support the diverse needs of our community. These partnerships are designed to provide resources, support, and engagement opportunities for our students and their families. Here are some key partnerships we currently have in place:

Local Cultural Centers: We collaborate with local Asian cultural centers that provide language classes, cultural events, and educational resources tailored to our community's needs.

Community-Based Organizations (CBOs): We partner with CBOs ( CPC, University Settlement) that offer a range of services including legal aid, health services, and social support tailored to immigrant and multilingual families.

Parent Advisory Councils: We have established parent advisory councils that include representatives from various cultural backgrounds, ensuring that all voices are heard in school decision-making processes.

Family Workshops and Seminars: Partnering with local experts and organizations, we offer workshops and seminars on topics such as parenting, education strategies, and navigating the school system.

Principal Certification

In accordance with New York State's Commissioner's Regulations Part 154 as outlined and implemented in the NYC DOE Policy and Reference Guide for MLs/ELLs, I, attest that the following ELL identification procedures and activities are adhered to, and staff are trained on the items listed below.

- The ELL Identification Process is completed for each student within 10 school days of enrollment (20 school days for students entering with IEPs).
- Enrollment status of each newly admitted student is determined:
  a. If a student has been in New York State public schools within the past 2 years, our school contacts the previous school to obtain ELL status, relevant assessment scores, and English language proficiency level.
  b. If a student has been outside of New York State public schools for more than 2 years, our school administers the ELL Identification Process as part of reentry.

- The home language of the student is determined by a trained and licensed pedagogue.
  a. The parent completes the Home Language Identification Survey in the parent's preferred language; translation services are provided by a bilingual staff member, the DOE's over-the-phone translation services, or an alternative, high quality translation service.

- An interview with parents and students in English and the home language is conducted. This includes reviewing documents, prior assessments, and academic experience. An assessment of the student's abilities and/or work samples determines the student's literacy and math level in his/her home language.
- Eligibility for the NYSITELL is determined.
  a. If the newly enrolled student is entering with an IEP, the school's Language Proficiency Team (LPT) recommends eligibility to the principal, who obtains final approval from the superintendent.

- Students are administered the NYSITELL, if eligible.
- Notification letters are sent to the parent/guardian in their preferred language.
  a. Parent is notified of their child's ELL status and results of the NYSITELL.

- If the student is identified as an ELL and the student's home language is Spanish, the student is administered the Spanish Language Assessment Battery (LAB).
- Student with Interrupted/Inconsistent Formal Education (SIFE) status is determined using New York State's resources.
- If a student is a newly identified ELL, the parent is invited to the parent orientation meeting.
  a. The parent orientation meeting provides parents/guardians with an explanation of each ELL program model offered in NYC; the parent video describing the three programs is presented (in parent's preferred language); parents/guardians are encouraged to ask questions so that they are informed about all ELL programs; translation and interpretation services are provided throughout the meeting.

- ELL is placed in the ELL program that the parent selected.
  a. If the bilingual program that the parent selected is not available, the parent is offered a transfer to a school with that bilingual program in accordance with NYC DOE transfer policies.
  b. If the ELL remains in the school, the ELL is placed in English as a New Language and our school keeps track of parent selection so that when minimum thresholds are met, we can open the ELL program of choice.

- Parents are notified that they have 45 days to appeal the ELL status of their child (ELL Re-identification Process).
- If the ELL Re-identification Process is implemented for any student, the principal reviews the decision of any student whose ELL status was changed because of the ELL Re-identification Process within 6 to 12 months.
- Copies of documentation regarding ELL identification, including letters and parent notifications are kept in the students' cumulative files.

Describe the resources and processes your school will use to communicate with parents who speak a language other than English during an emergency (e.g., lockdown, fire, student attendance, nurse/hospital visit, etc.), or when a parent needs to contact the school in an emergency, ensuring communication is in their preferred language.

During emergencies, Shuang Wen School prioritizes swift and clear communication with all families by utilizing multilingual resources and processes tailored to parents' preferred languages. The school maintains updated language preference data from ATS, home language surveys, and blue cards to guide emergency outreach. In urgent situations such as lockdowns, fires, attendance concerns, or health-related incidents, bilingual staff or language liaisons assist with direct calls or messages. Additionally, the school uses digital platforms like WeChat, GAMA, and Jupiter to send real-time alerts and updates in multiple languages. For incoming emergency calls from non-English-speaking parents, trained front office staff and the NYCPS Language Line are available to ensure prompt interpretation and effective communication.

Part D: Staff Awareness

Staff Awareness

Plan to ensure staff awareness of language access requirements and available resources.

1. Describe how your school will ensure that all staff members complete the required asynchronous NYCPS Language Access Training for School-based Staff on the WeLearnNYC learning platform, and are familiar with the Best Practices for When to Provide Translation of Critical Written Communications to Parents and Best Practices for When to Provide Interpretation for Critical Oral Communications with Parents. Additionally, explain how your Galaxy-designated LAC will disseminate future language access resources and updates to all staff members.

To ensure that all staff members are equipped to support language access, the school will implement a structured plan to monitor and facilitate completion of the required asynchronous NYCPS Language Access Training on the WeLearnNYC platform. School leaders will maintain a staff training completion log and provide reminders and support to ensure full participation. Professional development sessions and staff meetings will be used to review and discuss the Best Practices for When to Provide Translation of Critical Written Communications to Parents and When to Provide Interpretation for Critical Oral Communications, ensuring consistent understanding and implementation across the school community.

The Galaxy-designated Language Access Coordinator (LAC) will serve as the point person for language access initiatives and will disseminate new guidance, resources, and updates to staff through email, staff bulletin boards, and scheduled professional learning time. The LAC will also collaborate with administrators and teacher teams to reinforce language access expectations and ensure ongoing compliance and support for multilingual families.

Part E: Parental Notification

Parental Notification

Provision of notice to parents on the available language assistance services.

1. Describe how your school will inform parents about available language assistance services in their preferred language. Include any of the following:

- Brochures, flyers, or letters shared with parents
- Parent engagement events where language assistance services are highlighted (e.g., PTA meetings, international parents' night, etc.)
- Messaging applications

- Language Access for NYC Public Schools Families brochure

To ensure families are well-informed and supported, Shuang Wen School provides information about available language assistance services through a variety of accessible formats. Translated signage is displayed throughout the school building to guide non-English-speaking families. Important school communications—such as brochures, flyers, and letters—are regularly translated and distributed to parents. The school also promotes awareness of language services during parent engagement opportunities, including school performances and in-school events where multilingual communication is offered. In addition, Shuang Wen uses messaging platforms such as WeChat, GAMA, and Jupiter to share event updates and essential notices in multiple languages, keeping families connected and informed in their preferred language.

Part F: Monitoring

Monitoring

Methods for soliciting and implementing feedback on language assistance services.

1. In addition to the feedback received from parents via OLA's Translation & Interpretation Feedback Survey, describe the methods your school will use to gather feedback from parents regarding the language assistance services they receive in their preferred language.

In addition to the feedback gathered through OLA's Translation & Interpretation Feedback Survey, the school will collect parent input on language assistance services using several other strategies. Data from the Automate the Schools (ATS) system—specifically home language indicators—will help identify families requiring language support and enable tailored follow-up to assess their satisfaction. During the enrollment process, the Home Language Identification Survey (HLIS) provides an opportunity for families to express their language preferences and needs, which also informs how ongoing support is delivered. The school will also review information from students' emergency contact "blue cards," where parents often note preferred languages, ensuring that communication is aligned accordingly. These data points, combined with informal feedback through conversations with families and support staff, will help the school continuously evaluate and strengthen language access services to meet the needs of its multilingual community.

2. How has your school worked to improve its language assistance services? Share any feedback results and outline your plans for further improvements in the upcoming school year.

Shuang Wen School has taken a proactive approach to improving language assistance services by consistently evaluating feedback and implementing targeted strategies. Feedback collected from OLA's Translation & Interpretation Feedback Survey, as well as insights gathered from parent interactions, ATS language preference data, home language identification surveys, and blue card updates, has helped the school identify key areas for growth.

Based on this input, the school has expanded its use of multilingual messaging platforms like WeChat, GAMA, and Jupiter, allowing for faster and more effective outreach in families' preferred languages. Staff have also participated in NYCPS Language Access Training, reinforcing best practices for communication and equity.

Looking ahead to the upcoming school year, the school plans to offer more translated materials for school-wide events, enhance in-person interpretation support during key family engagement opportunities, and host staff refreshers on the use of language access tools. The Language Access Coordinator will also lead efforts to regularly update the school community with new resources and ensure consistent implementation across all grade levels. These efforts aim to foster a more inclusive environment where every family can engage fully in their child's education.

District 1 Language and Literacy Strategies for ML/ELLs
TBD

Rationale for Professional Development

Describe the rationale for the professional development to be provided. For each activity, include:

- Qualitative and quantitative data analysis (e.g., patterns and trends identified) that support the need for the professional development, and
- Data sources (e.g., school survey teacher responses, in-house teacher surveys, teacher observation data) used to justify the professional development.

Academic language refers to the language used in schools and common in school texts, which is different from everyday language. Research suggests that many multilingual students struggle with understanding what they are reading because they are still in the process of learning this language. However, there are very few tests that measure academic language, so teachers and schools are unable to determine which students might benefit from additional instruction. In fact, many measures of English language proficiency do not comprehensively assess academic language skills. In this project, teams from Harvard and Vanderbilt Universities will partner with educators to work with data from an innovative, computerized assessment of academic language skills to advance instruction. This instruction will be designed to accelerate literacy outcomes for multilingual youth.

Teachers to Receive Professional Development

Include information on the teachers to receive professional development. Please specify how all teachers working in the Title III ELL program will receive ongoing professional development related to the Title III ELL program.

ENL provider along with all elementary teachers K-8 along with ELA content based instructors as well as Science and Social Studies licensed personnel as well.  This will be at no cost to the school.

Schedule and Duration

For each Title III ELL professional development activity, include:

- Start and end dates/months,
- Total number of sessions,
- Days of sessions, and
- Time and duration of sessions.

Teachers who participate will help administer a 50-minute assessment during the school day, scheduled within the Monday and/or Tuesday after-school time slot. All participating teachers will receive a detailed report with data specific to their classrooms. Educators will also receive targeted professional learning to apply these results to their instruction, provided by the research team in five sessions throughout the 2025-26 school year. The school will utilize Monday PD time to implement these five sessions over the course of the year.

IEPs, 504 plans
Students with IEPs, 504 plans, and those receiving ENL services will be supported through accommodations and modifications tailored to their individual needs. This approach ensures that all students, including those with language and learning differences, receive equitable access to instruction and resources to support their academic progress.
9-29-2025
Literacy across all content areas
Integrating literacy across all content areas provides ENL students with consistent exposure to academic language and vocabulary, which supports language acquisition and comprehension. By encountering reading, writing, and discussion in multiple subjects, ENL students can deepen their understanding of key concepts while building language skills in authentic contexts. This approach helps them engage more fully with the curriculum and develop the skills needed to succeed in all areas of learning.
10-20-2025
Math across all content areas
Embedding math across all content areas gives ENL students opportunities to engage with mathematical concepts and vocabulary in varied contexts, reinforcing their numeracy and problem-solving skills. Through cross-curricular activities, ENL students can better understand math applications in real-world situations and other subjects, helping them make connections and enhancing their comprehension. This approach supports both their language development and math proficiency, allowing them to build confidence and skills essential for academic success.
12-1-2025
Level Learning (CLA)
Chinese Language Arts (CLA) benefits heritage and native learners who are also English language learners by providing a dual-language framework that enhances their proficiency in both Mandarin and English.

Part D: Family Engagement Activities

Family Engagement Summary

Provide a summary of your school's family engagement activities under your Title III ELL program. Describe the activities that families of ELLs will engage with by topic. Please make sure to include whether the activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds.
Please note: If family engagement activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds, vendor cost is calculated as part of OTPS and must not exceed 20% of the total allocation; teacher per-session is calculated as part of family engagement and must not exceed 10% of the total allocation.

At Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M), family engagement is a key component of our Title III ELL program and is designed to build meaningful partnerships that support the academic and language development of English Language Learners. Family engagement activities are offered in families' preferred languages (primarily Mandarin and Spanish) to ensure inclusivity and accessibility.

Planned activities for the 2025–2026 school year include:

Monthly Dual Language Karaoke Nights: These events promote home-school connection and encourage families to celebrate bilingualism through music and language in both Mandarin and English.

Family Story Hours: Families are invited to participate in shared reading experiences in both languages, reinforcing literacy and cultural identity at home.

Math Game Night (Grades K–8): Families engage in hands-on math games and activities designed to support math fluency and reinforce academic vocabulary.

NYC Kids Rise Milestone Celebrations: These sessions help families understand how to prepare for long-term educational planning and support financial literacy in connection with college savings.

These activities aim to empower families with strategies and resources to support their children's academic progress and English language development at home.

A portion of these family engagement activities will be funded by Title III ELL funds, including teacher per-session for planning and facilitation (within the 10% family engagement cap), as well as potential vendor costs (within the 20% OTPS cap) for materials, interpretation, and family-facing resources.

Rationale for Family Engagement Activities

Describe the rationale for the family engagement activities to be provided: For each activity, include:

- Qualitative and quantitative data analysis (e.g., reasons for topics, time activities will be offered), and
- Data sources (e.g., parent survey responses, in-house parent surveys, PTA/PA request, etc.) used to justify the need for activities.

Shuang Wen School's Title III family engagement activities are designed in response to the linguistic, academic, and cultural needs of our English Language Learner (ELL) community. Activities are based on data gathered from parent surveys, informal family conversations, feedback during family workshops, and input from PTA and bilingual staff. All activities are scheduled during evening or weekend hours to maximize accessibility for working families. Interpretation in Mandarin and Spanish is provided.

Dual Language Karaoke Nights (Monthly)

Rationale: Parents expressed a desire for low-pressure, culturally inclusive events that allow them to build community and practice language with their children. Participation in past karaoke nights has been high, with an average of 50+ attendees per session.

Data Sources: In-house parent survey (2023), informal feedback collected by ENL and Mandarin teachers, attendance sign-in sheets.

Purpose: Strengthen bilingual identity, promote positive home-school relationships, and celebrate Mandarin-English language learning in a fun, low-stakes format.

Family Story Hours

Rationale: Reading at home remains a priority among ELL families. Survey data showed 68% of parents requested guidance on how to support reading in English and Mandarin at home.

Data Sources: Fall 2023 Title III parent survey; literacy night exit tickets; teacher input on family literacy challenges.

Purpose: Model shared reading strategies; support biliteracy development; promote home-school literacy alignment.

Math Game Night (Grades K–8)

Rationale: A recurring theme in parent feedback was difficulty understanding how math is currently taught. 61% of families requested math-related support during spring parent-teacher conferences.

Data Sources: PTA meeting minutes; classroom teacher feedback; post-conference parent reflection forms.

Purpose: Reinforce mathematical language and fluency through hands-on games, build family confidence in supporting math at home, and align activities with grade-level expectations.

NYC Kids Rise Milestone Celebrations

Rationale: Parents have indicated limited awareness about financial planning and educational savings opportunities. These sessions will help bridge knowledge gaps and connect families with long-term college savings strategies.

Data Sources: Initial registration surveys, NYC Kids Rise participation metrics, parent questions during PTA meetings.

Purpose: Equip ELL families with tools to support long-term academic planning and introduce resources that address equity in post-secondary readiness.

Each activity was chosen for its high engagement potential, relevance to ELL family concerns, and alignment with Title III objectives. Participation data and feedback will continue to be collected to adjust future planning. All activities are structured to be culturally responsive and linguistically inclusive, supporting families as full partners in their children's education.

To promote meaningful family engagement, Shuang Wen School (P.S. 184M) provides a variety of activities that support the academic and language development of Multilingual Learners (MLs)/ELLs and foster strong home-school partnerships. These activities are coordinated by the Parent Coordinator, ENL Coordinator, and Community Coordinator.

The Parent Coordinator organizes events aligned with the EL Education curriculum to encourage families to read with their children in both Mandarin and English. For example, a Bilingual Story Hour is scheduled for November 8 in the school library, where families will participate in shared read-alouds and learn strategies to support bilingual literacy at home.

The school uses email blasts to communicate upcoming events and learning opportunities to families in a timely and accessible way. These emails include information about workshops, cultural events, and academic support sessions for families of ELLs.

The Community Coordinator and Parent Coordinator also collaborate to offer adult language classes in Mandarin and English, helping parents strengthen their language skills and better support their children's learning at home. In addition, they co-host "J & J Coffee Talk," an informal space where families can gather to share questions, experiences, and best practices related to language learning and home-school communication.

Planned family engagement events include:

Bilingual Story Hour – November 8 (Library)

Family Potluck & Karaoke Night – December 6 (Gym)

Additional events – To Be Announced (TBA) throughout the school year
